B.C. VOTE 'TEST' SAYS COLDWELL

VANCOUVER (CP)—Former CCF leader M. J. Coldwell says the proposed marriage of the CCF and the Canadian Labor Congress in a new political party will be given a trial in the Sept. 12 general election in British Columbia.

The union is not scheduled until next year, but the B.C. Federation of Labor voted last October to back the CCF in this election and is providing wide support in the campaign.

"This (election) will give us some indication of the success the new party can expect," Mr. Coldwell said Sunday in an airport interview. He will be in B.C. until Sept. 7, advising and aiding the CCF in its bid to increase its 10-seat representation in the 52-seat house.

WARNING BY EXCHANGE

Strachan Raps Stock 'Scare'

VANCOUVER (CP)—Investment decisions involving more than $450,000,000 in British Columbia's oil and gas industry could be affected by the results of the provincial election, says a Vancouver Stock Exchange report.

The exchange says the future of the rapidly-developing industry depends heavily on the ability to raise capital outside the province.

"That depends wholly on the confidence with which investors regard the political climate toward their industry, so far encouraging to them," the report says.

"From long experience, the oil and gas industry is sensitive to nationalistic or socialistic attack."

"B.C.'s standing with the managers of such investment and speculative funds could improve or worsen, according to what interpretation was put on the results of the Sept. 12 provincial election in which a strong bid for power is being made by socialists and in which government-ownership sentiment within parties and the electorate will be carefully studied."

DIRTY POLITICS

In Trail, Robert Strachan, leader of the provincial CCF party, called the report "dirty, rotten politics on the part of the people responsible for planting such statements."

"It is part of the lying, scurrilous stream of innuendos by those who have failed politically and realize the growing strength of the CCF," Mr. Strachan said.

"Hundreds of millions have been spent in oil and gas exploration in the province of Saskatchewan, where we have had a CCF government for 16 years, and have been handled to the satisfaction of the government, to the satisfaction of the companies involved in exploration, and to the satisfaction of the people of Saskatchewan."

MAJOR INCOME SOURCE

The exchange report says the industry is becoming one of the provincial government's major income sources, with $160,000,000 last year in revenues from drilling permits, leases and sales and from royalties on production.

In addition, it says, the government received sales taxes on material—used, gasoline taxes and other revenues generated from industrial activities of the industry.

"The fact that an almost negligible amount of government expenditure must be made in order to get this revenue is significant and helpful to the general taxpayers of the province," the report adds.

The exchange estimates that the industry in the next three years must spend upwards of $450,000,000 on pipelines and oil wells to develop the leases and permits now in existence and to provide refineries, chemical sulphur and other product and by-product plants.

MEETING SET

New Party Ready for Election

OTTAWA (CP)—A "crash campaign" will be launched if the federal government calls a snap election before Canada's new left-of-centre reform party is founded next summer, a party spokesman said today.

The founding convention for the new party is set for July 31-Aug. 4 at Ottawa, with about 1,500 to 2,000 delegates from trade unions, CCF groups, new party clubs as well as some individuals expected to attend.

Both the CCF party itself and unions affiliated with the Canadian Labor Congress have endorsed the idea of a new social reform party for Canadian politics.

Stanley Knowles, vice-president of the 1,100,000-member CLC and chairman of the National Committee for the New Party, said the crash election plan would be devised to fit the timing and circumstances of any sudden federal general election.

"We don't think there will be an election," said Mr. Knowles at a press conference.

CANDIDATES FROM BOTH

He indicated that there could be candidates in an election from the CCF and from the new party, even though it had not formally come into existence. They would not, of course, run against one another.

The founding convention date was set at a weekend meeting here of the National Committee for the new party consisting of 10 members of the CCF party and 10 representatives of the CLC.

Establishment of the new party was approved by the CCF national convention at Regina Aug. 11. Similar approval was given by the CLC at a convention in Montreal in April.

"Ottawa was chosen as the place for the founding convention because it is the capital of Canada and because of its bilingual heritage," the national committee said.

One of the main contenders for leadership of the new party will be Hazen Argue, who was chosen national leader of the CCF party at the Regina convention. Mr. Argue is CCF member of the Commons for Assiniboia.

PILOT'S WIFE APPEALS TO K

MOSCOW (AP)—Mrs. Barbara Powers appealed today to Premier Khrushchev to see her so she can ask for mercy for her husband, Francis Gary Powers, the U-2 pilot convicted of espionage against the Soviet Union.

Her lawyer delivered to the Kremlin a three-page letter the 25-year-old wife of the American flyer wrote by hand. Earlier today she decided to bypass the Soviet president and appeal directly to Premier Khrushchev.

U.S. Agent Defects To Russia

LONDON (Reuters)—Sgt. Vladimir Sloboda, described as a member of the U.S. intelligence service in West Germany, has asked for political asylum in Russia, the Soviet news agency Tass said.

In a statement published in tonight's issue of the government newspaper Izvestia, Sloboda reported on the activities of the United States intelligence services in West Germany, Tass said.

He said he was deputy commander of one of the sections of staff 513 and the intelligence group of Oberursel, near Frankfurt.

Sloboda's statement, headed "I break with the enemies of peace," is said to have been made Aug. 5 when he called on the Soviet Embassy in East Germany. He had crossed the border Aug. 2.

In his application for asylum he said that every day of service in the U.S. intelligence had led him to the conviction that the "official course of the policy of the U.S. government was total espionage, deception and blackmail, provocation and hypocrisy."

LINGUIST AND CLERK

The U.S. Army said when Sloboda disappeared that he was a linguist and clerk, not a deputy commander as Izvestia reported.

The army said Sloboda had "only very limited access to security information" and that no secret documents were missing.

In his statement Sloboda said detachments of U.S. military, air and naval intelligence are controlled by the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency in West Germany.

U.K. Strike Called Off

SOUTHAMPTON (Reuters)—The wildcat strike of British seamen was called off tonight by leaders of the "National Seamen's Reform Movement" here.

But they said they would still go on recruiting members for their organization.

The decision, to call off the strike was taken at a meeting of about 50 strikers here. It was the smallest meeting yet since the stoppage began two weeks ago.

QUEBEC (CP)—Yvette Gauthier, 26, of Quebec City today was charged with theft of $22,328 during employment with the Lido Biscuit Company.

BIRTHDAY REPORT

Margaret Expecting?

LONDON (UPI)—Newspapers here marked Princess Margaret's 30th birthday with reports that she is expecting a baby and that her husband, Antony Armstrong-Jones, has found a job.

The Sunday Dispatch cited "American circles in London" as the authority for its exclusive story that the princess is pregnant, saying that an unidentified American magazine editor got the story from an "unimpeachable source."

Today's Daily Express reported that Jones, who had to give up his fashionable photography studio when he married the princess, will go to work for the Civic Trust, a non-profit organization devoted to keeping Britain beautiful.

Buckingham Palace would neither confirm nor deny either report. Maj. John Griffin, Margaret's press spokesman, said he would like to be able to confirm the report that she is expecting, but that he could not.

"It would be a happy event to announce on her birthday, but no announcement like that is coming from me," Griffin said. "Nobody in the world would know but the princess and her husband."

Lumumba Backs Down

LEOPOLDVILLE (CP)—The Congolese government today withdrew the demands it has been trying to impose on the United Nations Congo operation.

In a sharp reversal of its previous position, the government announced it "sees no reason to press its demands" in view of the latest Security Council meeting on the Congo.

The Security Council, in effect, reaffirmed the policy pursued by Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld has been under fire by the Congolese who accused him of "blackmail, treason and plotting."

Today, a Congolese government spokesman said: "The government is satisfied that Belgian troops will be withdrawn. The government considers that the atmosphere is good."

Among the demands made by Premier Patrice Lumumba were withdrawal of all white United Nations troops from the Congo, a supply of planes by the UN to transport Congolese soldiers to deal with political dissension in the interior and the appointment of an African-Asian committee to advise Hammarskjöld.

Lumumba had threatened that unless the Security Council bowed to his demands he would appeal for aid to another power. The other power never was named.

USSR Plan Loses

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UPI)—The Security Council ignoring Russian opposition, endorsed Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld's Congo policy early today without a formal vote.

A Russian resolution proposing the creation of a consultative committee to "aid" Hammarskjöld in the Congo—the only concrete proposal advanced at a marathon council session that lasted well past midnight—was withdrawn in the face of sure defeat.

During the 9-hour-and-23-minute debate, all of the council's 11 members except Russia and Poland supported Hammarskjöld's refusal to involve the UN in the Congo's internal affairs.

Ambassador Armand Berard, the council's French president-of-the-month, summed up the consensus in two sentences.

"We have heard different views and questions," he said. "We are convinced that secretary-general will have found the clarification he required, and that no doubt will help him in the continuation of his task."

Hammarskjöld summoned the council to an extraordinary session when his policy of neutrality toward the secession of mineral-rich Katanga province was challenged by Congo Premier Patrice Lumumba.

Russia was specifically critical of the inclusion of Canadian troops in the Congo force, charging that Hammarskjöld was allowing the creation of an Atlantic pact "Foreign Legion."

Hammarskjöld replied that the Canadians were needed because they were the only available signalmen who could speak both English and French.

Lumumba expressed regret over Thursday's incident and said he has confidence in the Canadian troops.

"I asked for the French-speaking technicians myself during my trip to Canada," he said. "It was not for this that I invited them."

Mobutu's apology came in a letter to Bunchie.

"We are extremely sorry that precise instructions had not been given in time to the company on duty at the airport as that might have prevented the shameful occurrence at Ndjili," he said.

"Strong measures" had been taken "as regards the Congolese troops responsible for the Ndjili incident."

Canadians Detained

LEOPOLDVILLE (CP)—Four Canadian Army signalmen serving with the United Nations were detained briefly by Congolese soldiers in Stanleyville Sunday on grounds that their papers were not in order, it was reported.

A similar incident involving three RCAF personnel attached to the UN force in the Congo was reported to have occurred last Wednesday.

Fires Rage In Sierras

RENO, Nev. (AP)—Sierra forest fires in the Reno and Lake Tahoe areas were burning over 55,000 acres today but threatened California mountain vacation resorts escaped the flames.

The heat melted power lines in the Reno district Sunday night, cutting off electricity.

The main highway over the Donner Pass between Sacramento, Calif., and Reno was closed to all but emergency traffic.

SPACE TRAVELLERS FETED

LANDED IN MEADOW NEAR TARGET

Space Dogs Scamper At 'News Conference'

Times News Services

MOSCOW—Strelka and Belka, the two dogs the Russians successfully returned to earth from outer space, held their first news conference today.

They wagged their tails, nuzzled newsmen and scampered about, showing no ill effects of their trip in a space ship.

The dogs landed safely in a special container catapulted from their space ship when it had "come down to a low height," Pravda reports.

The Soviet Communist party newspaper says the 4½-ton space ship, which carried a cargo of mice, flies and plants, made a smooth landing "undamaged and whole" in a meadow of a collective farm somewhere in the Soviet Union Saturday.

Presumably the landing was made with the aid of parachutes, but Pravda gave no details. The ship had been launched Friday.

The Russians said the landings were made within seven miles of the target spot. A Soviet scientist said it took a year to prepare the two mongrels for their historic trip. The two dogs sat on a table under the bright lights of the conference, dressed in their space suits and occasionally scampering about and nuzzling newsmen.

Oleg Gazenko, a spokesman for the Soviet Union's Academy of Sciences, conducted the conference for the dogs and explained they were chosen for the flight because of their tranquil nature and equilibrium.

Strelka (Little Arrow) and Belka (Squirrel) were fed automatically twice a day during their space trip, Gazenko said.

Strelka wore a red jacket and Belka a green jacket. The scientist said the trip into the cosmos was the first for both dogs.

The Soviet Union launched its space ship last Friday. It was returned to earth Saturday.

Journalists who inspected the dogs could see for themselves that the space travellers had not a single bruise or abrasion," Tass News Agency said. "They sat on a table in their travelling outfit, playful and lively and fawned on people."

Reporters were also shown two cages filled with mice and rats which were used for studying hereditary changes possible as the result of cosmic conditions, especially cosmic radiation, the news agency said.

The scientist told the conference there were no changes in the pigmentation of a mouse and no grey hairs which indicated there were no cosmic radiation effects.

Radio Moscow filled the air with predictions by Soviet scientists that it would soon be possible for Russia to put Independence fer th' Congo hez bin as confusin' as throwin' away yer spear an' climbin' into a jet plane—an' as successful.

Mr. Bonner didn't say much about th' Peace River fother night—sort o' soft paddlin' it, y' might say.

Seems with them space dogs, their bark is worse than their flight.

EUROPE HAILS SOVIET ACHIEVEMENT

Space Fiction Outdated

LONDON (AP)—Europeans on both sides of the iron curtain Sunday acclaimed the safe return of a Soviet space ship with life aboard as a historic achievement opening the gates of outer space to mankind. Some in the West said the greatest achievements in the history of science.

Front page articles and editorials in newspapers all over the continent predicted a trip into space soon by man—probably a Russian.

Rome's independent Il Tempo hailed the event as "proof that man can survive in space."

'DRAMATIC LEAP'

"Russia has once again dramatically leaped ahead of America in the race for the conquest of space," said The Sunday Times.

The London Observer said the Soviet feat "will be a bitter pill to American scientists who have also successfully recovered objects from orbit, but on a far more modest scale."

Canadian Newspaperman Arrested by Congolese

Canadian Press correspondent Bernard Dufresne was arrested by Congolese police Sunday for not having a Congolese visa stamped in his Canadian passport. He was released two hours later after spending more than an hour in a cell at Makala prison. He was not harmed nor mistreated at any time. Here is his story.

BY BERNARD DUFRESNE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The Leopoldville cable office is closed Sunday. The immigration official said I was under arrest because my passport was not stamped with a Congo visa. He would not say how I could obtain a visa.

Jacques Omonombe, 20-year-old administrator of the sub-rete, or security police, took me and a Belgian, Paul Le-fevre, a Leopoldville resident for 14 years, to the jail. Le-fevre is a wholesale grocer and apparently his papers were not in order. I was told I would be detained until Monday because nothing could be done on Sunday. At the jail, Congolese trustees and soldiers armed with sub-machine guns gathered round me as Omonombe interviewed me in the cell block.

DIDN'T UNDERSTAND
He did not seem to understand that I was a reporter covering the activities of Canadian signalmen sent here to set up a communications system for the United Nations.

In the corridor were eight white men having lunch. Omonombe asked for my money, 2,060 Congolese francs, which were returned on my release.

When I signed my money away a Congolese keeper said in French: "Do not be afraid, sir."

I was placed alone in a clean cell painted in light grey. It was bright and airy. There was a bench and a wooden cot. I had two cigarettes and nursed them by frequent butting.

Omonombe refused permission to call the United Nations but said I could write a message to the Canadian army and he would deliver it. I wrote one but do not know whether it was delivered. I was not worried because when I was arrested I asked two NBC correspondents going to Brazzaville to call the UN.

Half an hour later Omonombe came back and returned my money and released me.

NOT ABUSED
At no time was I physically abused. Guards did not even take me by the arm to guide me. Omonombe, who said he is a cousin of Premier Patrice Lumumba, said he was releasing me because he had thought over my position as a newspaper man. He said he had not fully understood the situation earlier.

Katanga Chief Aims to Topple Lumumba

ELISABETHVILLE (Reuters) — Moise Tshombe, president and premier of Katanga province, conferred here today with opponents of Congolese Premier Patrice Lumumba in the hope of establishing a federation that would overthrow the central government.

The meeting included delegates from the Abako party headed by Congolese President Joseph Kasavubu, supporters of a breakaway movement in Kasai province and representatives of the small Puna party.

One delegate predicted that Lumumba's government would be out of office within two weeks.

The Katanga government today denied its own announcement of Sunday night that Congolese Justice Minister Remy Mwamba had been arrested by Katanga police. A Katanga spokesman told reporters today that a man named Mwamba had been arrested Sunday but, it turned out later, he was not the central government justice minister.

ACCOUNT CLOSED

MELBOURNE, Australia (Reuters)—A housewife was terrified about what her husband would do if he found out about the charge accounts she had run up, a court was told today, so she bought a rifle and ammunition on credit and killed him.

The prosecutor said Mrs. Thelma Jessie Sudweeks, 36, mother of three, turned herself in at a police station and said she had killed her 46-year-old husband because "you can't talk things over with him."

Neighbors watched breathlessly as Brace started his race against death.

He ran down four flights of stairs, across a concrete square, leapt over a high wire fence, ran across a garden—and caught the little girl as she fell to the ground.

As Rita tumbled, she hit a third-floor window, somersaulted and hit Brace on the chest. He staggered backwards but managed to hold on to the frightened child.

GRIT CANDIDATES FIND HIGH 'UNDECIDED VOTE'

VANCOUVER (CP) — Forty-seven Liberal candidates in Vancouver this weekend reported an abnormally high "undecided vote" in their areas and a wide public indecision, leader Ray Perrault said Sunday.

The candidates and their campaign managers held a two-day provincial "plan for victory" session here. Mr. Perrault spoke to them and to party leaders late Sunday.

"Our candidates find hunger everywhere in B.C. for a responsible government that tells the truth and faces truth," he said.

He predicted Liberalism will win the Sept. 12 election because the public wants action on unemployment and his party had evolved the only plan to meet and beat unemployment.

"The public is acutely aware that the present regime — which was brave, bold and confident during the boom years — is now a frightened government which says it will stand pat on the record when, in fact, it has become a stand scared government."

FAIR DEAL IN TWO AREAS

NEUTRALITY PLEDGE BY CIVIL SERVANTS

B.C.'s civil servants have pledged neutrality in the election campaign.

The B.C. Government Employees' Association, in a statement, divorced itself from politics. It said its disagreements with the government were purely economic ones.

President Dave Block also said its affiliation to the Canadian Labor Congress and the B.C. Federation of Labor doesn't commit government employees to political activities.

The federation is supporting the CCF in the Sept. 12 election and the CLC is concerned in a future political merger with the CCF.

"The BCGEA is politically neutral," said Mr. Block, "and will take no part in the present provincial election campaign either directly or indirectly."

OPENS CAMPAIGN TONIGHT

North 'Big Issue' Says Bennett

PRINCE GEORGE (CP) — Development of B.C., particularly the north, is going to be the big issue — the Sept. 12 election campaign, Premier Bennett said Sunday night, and he added: "It means jobs."

Rolling north to the end of steel on the government-owned Pacific Great Eastern Railway, of which he is president, the premier held an impromptu press conference aboard the train and told reporters "I'm opening my campaign in the north because the issue in this election is going to be the dynamic development in the golden sixties."

All other parties except Social Credit, he said, were against development of the north, adding "that is the issue and it means jobs."

He charged that the opposition parties so far in the campaign have been trying to mislead the people through either ignorance or design. But no matter what they said, his party would stand on its record of eight years in office, looking to the further development of the province and particularly the north.

Looking out the train window at a highway beside the railway track in this far north area, the premier remarked, "Look at that. Before our times, there wasn't any road there."

He said the government has committed more than $51,000,000 toward road construction in the province up to March 31 this year. Mr. Bennett shielded off questions about the outcome of the election, saying, "We must go to the people on our record."

It was in the hands of the voters, but a glint came into his eye when one reporter said it had been suggested Social Credit would take 42 of the 52 seats in the legislature.

The government party now holds 38 seats.

He said his government has a 10-year plan for "dynamic development" of British Columbia.

Mr. Bennett fires his opening shot of the election campaign with a speech at Fort St. John tonight. He also speaks at Dawson Creek Tuesday and at Prince George Wednesday.

Jamaica Sect Eyes Africa

KINGSTON, Jamaica (CP) — A seven-man mission will be sent to Africa to explore immigration possibilities there for Jamaicans.

Premier Norman Manley made the announcement and said every effort will be made to ensure the mission is fully representative of the Rastafarian sect, but immigration opportunities would be open "to everyone, irrespective of race, color or creed."

The Rastafarian sect is one that advocates migration to Africa.

ATOM TEST BAN TALKS ADJOURNED

Each Side Blames Other

GENEVA (Reuters) — The three-power conference on banning nuclear tests adjourned today until Sept. 27.

The delegates from the United States, Britain and Russia held a final 70-minute session before adjourning the 21-month-long negotiations.

East and West blamed the other for delays in negotiations.

U.S. delegate David Popper warned against any expectations of an early agreement and said the conference had undoubtedly been held up by "unreasonable Soviet demands." But he promised the U.S. would examine the issues with a constructive spirit and said he hoped Russia would do the same.

Soviet delegate Semyon Tsarapkin countered by claiming delay in negotiations was "due to the influence of militaristic forces opposed to the banning of nuclear tests."

Both Popper and Tsarapkin agreed that the three outstanding issues were safeguards to guarantee that small explosions were not being used for military purposes, composition of a seven-nation control commission and details of a moratorium on small underground tests.

50 SHOTS Two Killed In Montreal Gun Battle

MONTREAL (CP) — A smouldering neighborhood argument exploded into violence Sunday night in a tough east-end district, leaving two persons dead and four injured after a gun battle in which 50 shots were fired.

An argument over a woman apparently was the cause of another fatal shooting in the north-end early Sunday.

Shot in the east-end outburst were James Godin, 50, and Rosemary Tremblay, 33.

Miss Tremblay was killed in a lane as she ran towards a man holding a .410-calibre shotgun moments after Mrs. Florence Jean Louis, 28, had been wounded. Police said the dead woman was trying to persuade the man to put down the gun.

Lucien Barron, 38, was wounded in the back when he went to Miss Tremblay's aid.

"He shot and she fell," Const. Michaud and Const. Yvon Sawchuk, 24, were nicked by pellets in the exchange of gunfire that followed. Fifteen police cars surrounded the area.

ON CALGARY STREET

Two Passersby Slain

CALGARY (CP) — An outburst of rifle fire which police said was without any apparent reason killed two men and injured a police constable on a downtown street here Sunday.

A fourth man, Charles Martin, 31, was to appear in police court today on a charge of murder.

Killed by rifle fire were Stewart McGregor, 33, and Wallace Hall, 82. Police Constable Stanley Christensen was struck in the stomach. Const. Christensen was reported in good condition in hospital.

WALKING ALONG STREET

McGregor, an invalid living on city relief, and Hall, a retired salesman who lived alone, were hit as they were walking along the street.

Police said the bullets which killed them came from a .303-calibre rifle fired by a gunman who had broken into a gun shop.

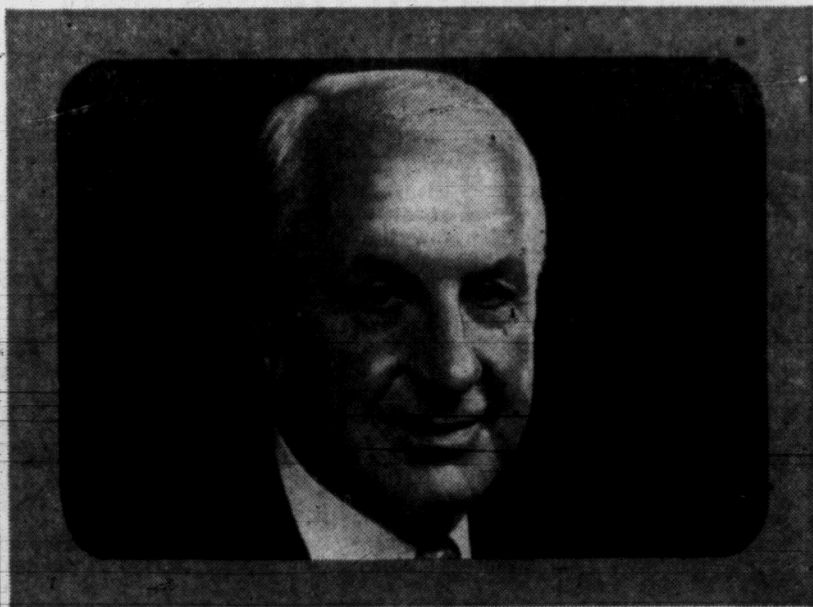

An eyewitness told police that he heard what sounded like shots and saw Hall crumple in front of a shop window. McGregor, with whom he had been walking, was hit while trying to help Hall.

Constable Christensen, going to investigate a reported break-in at the gun shop, was hit as he got out of a police car by fragments of a bullet that had ricocheted from a rifle on a stand in the shop.

Then the gunman calmly gave himself up after crawling over broken glass and putting the rifle on the sidewalk.

The manager of a hostel said Martin had been registered there since Friday and had come to the hostel two or three times in the last year. The manager added that Martin was better dressed than most of the transients and "very quiet."

Neutralism from the CCF

THE BRITISH COLUMBIA VOTER who is asked to regard the CCF as the best alternative to the Bennett Government will have to consider the CCF's broad policies, its general attitude apart from provincial politics.

In one respect at least that attitude, as laid down at the recent Regina convention, must be very disturbing to most British Columbians. The CCF resolved by a formal vote of 85 to 72 that Canada should withdraw from the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. In other words, this country should repudiate all its Western allies, including Britain.

In place of NATO we should depend, says the CCF convention, entirely on the United Nations which, at its present stage of evolution, is no substitute for the grand alliance of the free world.

The older and cooler heads at Regina, including Premier Douglas of Saskatchewan, saw at once the folly of this proposal but they were beaten down by the younger generation. The delegates from British Columbia took a leading part in the condemnation of NATO.

What Mr. Strachan thinks of all this we don't know, but we doubt that more than a small minority of British Columbians would approve a policy of withdrawal from NATO and from those allies who are absolutely essential to Canada's defence. What we are asked to accept in the CCF resolution at Regina is really nothing but an impotent, dangerous neutralism, a complete retreat from the views of such men as Mr. M. J. Coldwell.

It will be seen at once that the policy framed in Regina differs completely from the policy outlined in Parliament a few days ago by Mr. Pearson for the Liberal Party. He is flatly opposed to the use of atomic weapons in Canada. He regards the Government's intended atomic agreement with the United States as dangerous to Canada's independence, since it would place our major weapons and indeed our final power of decision effectively under American control.

But Mr. Pearson has never suggested that we repudiate NATO and attempt a policy of neutralism, whatever name it may be given. He was one of the first architects of NATO and, later on, was appointed as one of its "three wise men" who recommended changes in the machinery of the alliance.

On the other hand, Mr. Pearson has been a United Nations man from the start and it was within the United Nations that his international statecraft won him the Nobel Peace Prize. We see no conflict between NATO and the UN, as the CCF does. To him both organs are complementary and vital to Canada's safety.

No one will suggest, of course, that the British Columbia election should turn on these international issues that must remain outside the jurisdiction of any provincial government. We have plenty of local issues to settle.

Nevertheless, the CCF must weaken its claim to be the Bennett Government's best alternative when it shows itself so thoroughly irresponsible in the great affairs of the nation. That sort of irresponsibility will not be found in the Liberal Party, federal or provincial.

Barrier on the Road to Court

WHILE PREMIER CASTRO takes over multi-million-dollar United States holdings in Cuba, Richard L. Strout, writing in The Christian Science Monitor, points to the made-in-America barrier blocking dispossessed American interests from an appeal to the appropriate court.

Under happier circumstances, the United States interests could take their case to the World Court at The Hague. But, notes Mr. Strout, the approach by Americans is blocked by the Connally amendment.

The amendment is the condition established by the United States regarding trial before that tribunal. By it, the United States reserves to itself the right to determine whether or not it will appear before the court. It can reject the court's jurisdiction by deciding what are and what are not issues of a domestic nature only—matters over which the World Court has no authority.

Having insisted on that proviso, the United States, says Mr. Strout, cannot deny similar rights to any other country. Hence, were American interests to attempt to bring Cuban authorities before The Hague, the Cubans could refuse to appear on grounds completely consistent with American policy respecting the World Court.

Cuba proposes to pay for the properties it has expropriated, but lacking an authority of the status of the World Court to assess the value of those properties, no agency seems available to assure that the payments will be fair.

The Connally Amendment has been under attack in the United States on several occasions—and on principle, not merely for purposes of enlightened self-interest. President Eisenhower, Vice-President Nixon, Attorney General Rogers, Senator Hubert Humphrey, the American Bar Association and others have advocated its repeal. The Democratic convention in Los Angeles condemned this "self-judging reservation," and the Republicans at Chicago called for "the extension of the rule of law in the world."

Currently a new body headed by Judge Learned Hand and Robert Dechert, former counsel of the United States Defence Department, are campaigning for "effective use of The International Court."

The efforts to repeal the Connally amendment are not new. The Cuban issue, on the other hand, indicates just how damaging the amendment can be to American interests.

Here They Come . . . Didn't They?

THOSE WHO SAW THE RCAF Golden Hawks perform off the Beacon Hill waterfront on Saturday gained a new appreciation of precision flying or renewed their previous belief that the Hawks are tops in the art.

It is customary today for experts to predict the demise of manned flight. But a show like this could set unmaned rocketry back fifty years. For here was a demonstration, not only of mechanical perfection such as a rocket might be expected to exhibit, but also of human perfection—cool nerve, phenomenal co-ordination, superb split-second timing and that quality which the machine alone can never show, the dramatic thrill of a human challenge to space and time with life itself in the balance.

The Golden Hawks have all this. Whether their inspired flying marks the end of an era or the beginning of another, they have demonstrated aerobatics at its best, and for that we are grateful. Well done, Hawks and RCAF.

Co-Operation In the Deep Freeze

THE UNITED STATES HAS ratified the Antarctic Treaty to prohibit nuclear explosions and military bases on that land mass. The Soviet Union is expected to follow suit in the near future.

Endorsement is also assured by Argentina, Australia, Belgium, Chile, France, Japan, New Zealand, Norway, South Africa and Britain.

In a world so torn by rival interests, unanimity seems the theme for the ice-coated continent at the South Pole. This is important beyond the agreement itself which also freezes existing territorial claims for the next 34 years. It could be the pilot-project for other agreements of the space age and an illustration to the world of practical co-operation even among nations ideologically opposed to one another.

Perhaps the over-riding question of survival in the Antarctic makes such an international policy obligatory. It is noteworthy, however, that Russia's record there has been entirely co-operative. Scientific personnel and data have been exchanged between different expeditions and general knowledge has been increased by this means.

In its present state Antarctica may offer stakes too low to be worth conflict, but at least this sample of co-operation should not be ignored by nations which could all perish if they fail to get along with one another in the nuclear age.

A FEARLESS STATEMENT OF THE FACTS

Campaigning Out Our Way: An Evening of Enlightenment

THERE was an excellent turnout the other evening for the political rally sponsored by our neighborhood branch of the Society for the Improvement of Citizenship and Gladiolus Culture. It had originally been intended that the membership should hear candidates from all four political parties, but circumstances made this impossible. Mr. Strark, the CCF candidate, had a previous engagement at a teachers' meeting; Commander Wharf-Wharfie, Conservative, forgot the occasion, having mislaid his invitation, but was able to arrive in time for the sandwiches and coffee; while Mr. Albert Gritte, the prospective Liberal candidate, had not yet been formally nominated and felt that he could not fairly participate at this time.

Tobin

The result was that only Mr. Philip Uster, the Social Credit standard-bearer, was present on the platform, but as he covered all his opponents' ground and his own as well, it was felt by everyone that the evening had been a pronounced success and of the utmost value to all those present in making up their minds on the issues of the day.

However, everyone knew what was intended, and Mr. Uster took it in good part, admitting that although he had

Slip of the Tongue

Having explained the absence of the other candidates, the chairman introduced Mr. Philip Uster to the meeting in a most pleasing and nonpartisan fashion, although through some lapse of memory he referred to him as Mr. Buster throughout, and in a slip of the tongue at the conclusion of his introduction assigned him to the CCF Party.

However, everyone knew what was intended, and Mr. Uster took it in good part, admitting that although he had

FROM WASHINGTON

So Entangled in the Quarrel Over the U-2 Flight

ON three separate issues—the Powers trial in Moscow, economic aid to Latin America, and the Presidential campaign—Mr. Eisenhower has made statements that have had an immediate impact on the diplomatic community in Washington and therefore on governments all over the world. In answer to questions at his press conference, Mr. Eisenhower wisely decided to refrain from extended comment on the Powers trial lest his intervention should complicate matters for the accused American pilot.

Great importance is being given here to his repudiation of the Russian charge that the United States Government was standing in the dock with Mr. Powers. This Soviet accusation was correctly forecast by the Central Intelligence Agency before the trial opened. All the same, the Kremlin has already achieved one important victory.

It has forced Mr. Eisenhower to make another defence of espionage as an essential part of American policy so long as Russia uses secrecy as a shield of her own security. No other Western statesman has found it necessary to make this argument in public.

What is worse, the argument will continue and will grow in bitterness, for Mr. Nixon and Senator Kennedy have diverse policies. Mr. Nixon defends espionage as the best means of preventing "an atomic Pearl Harbor" as the result of a surprise attack by the Soviet Union.

Remote Risks

Senator Kennedy thinks the risks of a surprise assault are remote and in any case are outbalanced by the greater and constant risk of provoking Russia by a system of espionage that can never hope to arm the United States with all the information it needs but is certain to widen the breach with Moscow.

He would put more emphasis on negotiations with Russia to end atomic tests and to achieve at least some degree of disarmament.

In this approach he sees more security for the United States and free nations than in a mere reliance on an elaborate system of espionage.

Mr. Eisenhower's long campaign for disarmament should make him responsive to Senator Kennedy's arguments. But he has become so entangled in the quarrel over the U-2 flight that he is at the moment more eager to justify the policy of espionage than he is to lived in the district—and, indeed, next door to the chairman—for nearly thirty-eight years, he was new to politics and could understand that he had yet to make a name for himself and establish himself as a party representative.

"I stand before you, I do not pretend, as one of yourselves, seeking only to be of service to you. I do not pretend, of course, to understand the basic theory of Social Credit, the fundamental economic theorem in which the party's principles are rooted and which by implication all candidates running under the Social Credit banner are expected to uphold. I have, however, been given several pamphlets which purport to explain it and I am sure that when I get an opportunity to read them I shall find myself in full agreement with the party's essential doctrine.

No Rivals

"This doctrine, whatever it may prove to be, I pledge myself unwaveringly to implement. The candidates of no other party can make this claim." (There was a murmur of agreement throughout the audience and scattered applause.)

"But let us proceed," said Mr. Uster, "to consider some more immediate questions. There has been, I believe, some discussion of provincial debt from time to time. And while I am on this topic may I urge you all, as patriotic and responsible citizens, to subscribe to all bond issues of the PGE, the Hydro Commission and such provincial agencies as they are offered to the public. It is not only a duty but a privilege."

"But I must not digress. I am happy to be able to state, as your Social Credit candidate, that your debt has been wiped out through the wise provision of the Social Credit Government. We should be very proud of this."

"We should be very proud, too," as Mr. Waldo Skillings said only the other day—that we still owe $555 million, because while this is not debt, it proves how good our credit is. If the Government owed such a vast sum, it might lower our credit standing. But since it is only owed by the people, it shows how good our standing is."

"You see, the borrowings aren't really owed—at least, they're owed but they're not debt; not direct debt, that is. Why, if this half-a-billion dollars wasn't owed, our credit wouldn't be nearly as good, I imagine. The very size of that amount indicates how much confidence investors have in us, so that if we ever wanted to borrow we could do so at a very favorable rate, though of course we never will. All that sort of thing is behind us now."

"I hope you follow me in all this. It was made very clear in a pamphlet I read the other day, and I wish I had it here with me now. Yes, indeed."

(Encouraging murmurs came from various parts of the hall.)

"Let us turn," cried Mr. Uster, warming to his task, "to the question of electric power. I shall not bore you with the details—and in this I am following the example of our excellent Social Credit Government—with the details of our power policy. What we want is progress, not politics."

(Several members of the audience cheered.)

Higher Finance

"As soon as Mr. Wenner-Gren and his generous, public-spirited associates are able to obtain customers for their power, they will be able to line up investors eager to put their money into a sure thing. And as soon as the money is invested and the vast dams and power houses and transmission lines built and the selling price determined, then there will be no difficulty in obtaining customers for the power. You see how neatly it all fits in."

"At first there will be much more power than we need, and the surplus will be sold to the United States. Export sales of power are, as you know, not permitted by the Federal Government."

"And even though Peace River power may cost more than the Columbia, think what a wonderful thing this will be for the country and for you as power users."

"And let me repeat, nothing has been given to Mr. Wenner-Gren and his associates who seek only the welfare of the public. After all, what would such wealthy men want with more money? A tenth of the province has been set aside for them, of course, but this is only to keep self-seeking opportunists out. There must be no politics in a thing like this."

O Happy Day

"I have no time," said Mr. Uster frankly, "to tell you of all the great plans the Government has in store. Be happy," he cried, "that your province is run more efficiently than the municipalities, who have increased their taxes enormously despite the Government's efforts to help the home owners with grants. Be glad that the province has wrested more money from those people at Ottawa, and will seek still more for you."

"Critics have charged that British Columbia taxes are among the highest on the continent. But, my friends, do such critics mention the incomparable scenery, the matchless climate, the wonderful natural resources of our great province? No, my friends, they do not."

"If you want a continuation of all these advantages you can be sure that I, as your representative, will personally support them."

Tea was poured by Mrs. Fitzpotts and Mrs. Warde-Hieler.

A scheduled talk on gladiolus fertilizer was postponed until the next meeting. As the chairman pointed out, "We have already had more than we deserve for one meeting."

This Soviet accusation was correctly forecast by the Central Intelligence Agency before the trial opened. All the same, the Kremlin has already achieved one important victory.

It has forced Mr. Eisenhower to make another defence of espionage as an essential part of American policy so long as Russia uses secrecy as a shield of her own security. No other Western statesman has found it necessary to make this argument in public.

What is worse, the argument will continue and will grow in bitterness, for Mr. Nixon and Senator Kennedy have diverse policies. Mr. Nixon defends espionage as the best means of preventing "an atomic Pearl Harbor" as the result of a surprise attack by the Soviet Union.

Remote Risks

Senator Kennedy thinks the risks of a surprise assault are remote and in any case are outbalanced by the greater and constant risk of provoking Russia by a system of espionage that can never hope to arm the United States with all the information it needs but is certain to widen the breach with Moscow.

He would put more emphasis on negotiations with Russia to end atomic tests and to achieve at least some degree of disarmament.

In this approach he sees more security for the United States and free nations than in a mere reliance on an elaborate system of espionage.

Mr. Eisenhower's long campaign for disarmament should make him responsive to Senator Kennedy's arguments. But he has become so entangled in the quarrel over the U-2 flight that he is at the moment more eager to justify the policy of espionage than he is to seek a larger agreement with Russia.

It was noticed with regret, for example, that his one brief reference to atomic tests simply restated the old American formula, so often shown to be unacceptable as a basis for negotiation, with its primary emphasis on a strict system of controls.

Moreover, he failed to give any importance at all to the new disarmament proposals submitted the previous day to the United Nations by Mr. Lodge. This silence has confirmed the suspicion that the United States never believed that its revised disarmament plan would in fact open the way to more hopeful discussions with Russia.

Two Points

Two important points were made by Mr. Eisenhower in discussing the problems of Latin America. He rejected the suggestion that the United States should have a sick conscience over events in Cuba. He refused to concede that mistakes in Washington had helped to produce the trouble in Havana.

Once again this argument is in direct conflict with Senator Kennedy's philosophy. In his recent policy statement for the Democratic Party, Senator Mansfield declared that the beginning of wisdom in Cuban affairs must be the recognition that mistakes have been made on both sides.

Without this admission American policy will be self-righteous and will cut itself adrift from important elements of opinion in Latin America.

Precisely this kind of error was made by Mr. Eisenhower who unfortunately allowed his anger at a most unpopular reporter, who put the question, to influence his comment on Cuba.

Mr. Eisenhower was somewhat more helpful in suggesting that the countries of Latin America should organize some joint economic plan to administer the funds which the United States will spend on improving the living standards of those republics.

This kind of co-operation ensured the success of the Marshall Plan in Western Europe. The President was reluctant to embody his suggestion as part of definite Government policy because he did not wish to be giving advice to Latin American leaders.

Once more he stands apart from the Democratic Party. Senator Fulbright, chairman of the Senate foreign relations committee, has been critical of the Eisenhower Administration for wanting immediate approval of a $500,000,000 aid program for Latin America before a detailed and workable plan has been prepared in Washington to see that this money will be wisely used. The Democratic majority in Congress will merely authorize the program at this session. The actual funds will be voted next year.

Should Senator Kennedy be in the White House there will be far greater demands on Latin America to act in effective economic partnership.

Shares Views

On this issue Senator Kennedy shares the views of Governor Rockefeller, an authority on Latin America. Here is one area where Mr. Nixon at present is wavering uneasily between Mr. Eisenhower and Mr. Rockefeller.

Given all these disagreements with the Democrats, it should hardly be a matter for surprise that Mr. Eisenhower has changed his earlier plans and has now made himself available to Mr. Nixon for political speeches in the Presidential campaign.

Senator Kennedy was hopeful that Mr. Eisenhower would play only a minor role in the contest. Apparently this hope has now been extinguished.

This news is more important to Senator Kennedy than the latest Gallup Poll which shows Mr. Nixon in the lead in the Presidential race.

Senator Kennedy's own polls, which in the past have been more reliable than the Gallup Poll, present a very different picture of public opinion and one less encouraging to Mr. Nixon.

But Mr. Kennedy now realizes that he will face not only Mr. Nixon but Mr. Eisenhower as well and both men will have at their call the forces of a surprisingly united Republican Party. Meanwhile, the Democrats continue to snarl and quarrel among themselves.

The Victorians may have been monoliths of enterprise and integrity, but I have never cared for monoliths. # Digestive Tract Bleeding

Thousands of persons can bleed heavily from the digestive tract and can recover; a few will not recover. In a recent paper, Drs. H. M. Langrall, A. H. Baggenstoss, and E. E. Woljaeger, of the Mayo Clinic, report the findings at autopsy on 135 persons who died because of a massive hemorrhage from the digestive tract.

Alvarez

Most of the patients were middle-aged men. In 50 cases, a "peptic" ulceration was found. In 43 cases the bleeding came from the type of varicose veins that form in the gullet of some patients suffering from cirrhosis of the liver.

Some sort of cancer was found in 20 cases, and some defect in blood-clotting was found in 11. In four cases no source for the bleeding could be found. Apparently the blood had just seeped through the lining of the stomach or gut. In some cases it was hard to tell which of several shallow ulcerations had been the main source of the bleeding.

I must conclude that the new remedies for pinworms are immensely more effective than was the old gentian violet. Why? Because I no longer get a dozen letters a week about these worms.

First, came the phenothiazine drugs, and now I read that in the University of Miami the doctors have found that the new drug pyriminium pamoate has worked perfectly in 60 out of 100 children treated. Another 35 per cent were cured by being given at least one more dose of the drug. This is good news because pinworms can cause much itching around the anus.

All the children affected in a home must be cured at the same time; otherwise they will keep reinfesting one another. It is good to make each child wear at night a pair of snug cotton panties. These must be boiled every day. They will greatly cut down on the amount of re-infestation.

People who have had a cancer removed incompletely are naturally much worried about the possibility of its coming back.

They would not be quite so hopeless if they knew how powerfully the body of many persons can fight back against the invading cancer cells. Sometimes the body fights these cells to a standstill.

For instance, one day I saw an autopsy on a woman who had died after many years of suffering with heart disease. I knew that seven years before, she had had an inoperable cancer of the neck of the womb. Radiation had been inserted, and she had recovered perfectly. Imagine my surprise then to see when her abdomen was opened, a mass of enlarged glands all full of cancer cells! Under the microscope no reason could be seen to account for the fact that for seven years the cells had not grown.

I had a similar experience with a woman who came to me with pain in her right hip. An X-ray examination showed it was full of cancer cells. These had probably come from a cancer of her breast which had been removed 14 years before! I prescribed some X-ray treatment which stopped her pain. Two years later, when she was last in my office, she was well and comfortable, but I could see that the cancer cells were still in her hip bone.

In the old days, around 1890, when cancers of the breast were seldom operated on, the statistics showed that in some 10 per cent of the women, the body held the cancer under control for, as I remember, five years, and in 5 per cent, the body kept things under control for 10 years or more.

In my long medical life I have seen many cases in which cancer cells, left in the body during an operation, did not grow. Now, I read of a recent discussion by Dr. George E. Moore, a cancer expert from Buffalo, who described this remarkable immunity of many human bodies to the growth of cancer cells. He spoke of the many persons with scattered cancer who just do not succumb to it. He reminded his hearer of those many cases in which a person becomes ill with scattered cancer 15 or 20 years after the original growth was removed.

One then wonders why the bad cells had slumbered all that time. Also, in hundreds of cases we doctors are impressed by the fact that when the main growth is removed the daughter growths are unable to go on developing. They have lost their power to conquer the body.

New Laos Leader Bids To Avoid Civil War

VIENTIANE, Laos (Reuters)—Loyalist troops Sunday halted their march on Vientiane as revolutionary Premier Prince Souvanna Phouma moved to settle amicably a crisis which has threatened Laos with civil war.

The forces, led by Gen. Phoumi Nosaan—the defence minister in the pro-Western government deposed 12 days ago—were ordered to stop their advance following urgent talks Saturday night between Phoumi and Prince Souvanna.

The talks prevented a clash between the loyalist forces and the revolutionary army entrenched in the evacuated capital of Vientiane under the command of Gen. Ouan Rattikhone.

First Fall Show This Weekend

Summer is putting on a brilliant display to give us a false sense of security, but the fact must be faced that fall cannot be far off.

For proof, the first of the local fall shows will be open to the public on Friday and Saturday.

View Royal Garden Club this year is staging a two-day show in place of the one-day affair held annually for the past 10 years, and our best wishes go to them for success.

The gardening public of Victoria and the district out towards View Royal may contribute in no small way to the success by visiting the show, a simple and pleasant procedure.

TAKE NOTES

Flower and vegetable shows are far from being a waste of a gardener's time, whether we go as exhibitors or visitors. I am a firm believer in the notebook and pencil approach, for as sure as a new plant or a new variety is seen, just as surely will a gardening friend be met and the plant and its details forgotten.

Jotting down the information is one sure way of advancing the hobby. In itself, this is a good-enough reason for visiting every flower and vegetable show within our reach.

Other reasons might be given, such as the supporting of community efforts and the fostering of a community spirit. These reasons would seem to apply to the residents of the View Royal area. Each year new gardens and gardeners are added to the district, yet many of them are entirely unaware of the functioning of the garden club.

It exists for their benefit and pleasure, and the only requirement beyond a small annual fee, is the participation in the activities of the club.

The annual shows, and the monthly meetings, are held in the View Royal Community Association Hall, just opposite the fire hall on top of Four-Mile Hill near where Helmsken Road meets the old Island Highway.

NEGROES REBUFFED BY CHURCH

ATLANTA (AP)—Four Negroes were turned away at Atlanta's First Christian Church Sunday in the only reported attempt to continue the kneeling campaign which began two weeks ago.

The Rev. James W. Rose, pastor of the church, said church leaders explained to the two men and two women that the congregation had not yet reached an official decision on the matter. He said the Negroes thanked the church leaders and left quietly.

The past two Sundays Negro students attempted to worship with white persons at 16 churches in the Atlanta area. They were admitted at nine churches, turned away or asked to take separate seats at seven others.

116 Arrested In 'Drag' Riot

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—Police used tear gas and arrested 116 persons Sunday in a riot that started as a protest against failure of the city to provide a drag-racing strip.

One policeman was injured when a tear gas shell struck his leg. Several were roughed up.

Those arrested included 36 teen-agers, some of them girls. The adults, most of them young, were jailed on charges of rioting, refusing to disperse and conspiracy. Bail was set at $80 each.

Prior to police intervention, the drag-race enthusiasts had started racing on a section of a boulevard in east San Diego. They had notified police in advance that they intended to do so in protest against failure to obtain a racing strip to replace one recently closed down after a fatal collision.

Four of the teen-agers were in hospital after the bat-swinging, knife-slashing melee that began after an argument over a girl, police said.

All the principals and most of the people who assembled were Negroes, police said.

Seventy policemen dispersed the cyclists, who gather in Springfield each year on the eve of Illinois state fair motorcycle races.

LOCAL NEWS BRIEFS

In the 12 months ended June 30, 10 of 177 persons in the Pacific region prosecuted for infractions of the Unemployment Insurance Act were prosecuted in Greater Victoria, National Employment Service officials disclosed today.

Regional director Horace Keetch said this was an overall marked increase over the same period of the previous year.

Majority of prosecutions were against unemployment insurance claimants for failure to declare earnings or employment while drawing benefits.

Owners of a pair of dogs that killed 100 chickens last week at the home of Sam Jones, 1976 Keating Cross Road, have volunteered to pay damages for the birds.

"It was wonderful of them to come forward like that. Not everyone would have done it," said Mrs. Jones.

Central Saanich police captured one of the dogs earlier this week and it was sent to the SPCA. Mr. Jones believes he hit the other dog with his shotgun when he drove them off. It was found dead on his property.

Two Victoria airmen will be among 36 representing the RCAF air division in a seven-nation gunnery competition in Europe.

Amendments specifying the size of septic tanks and the type of construction will head the agenda at this week's meeting of Central Saanich council.

Approval of all construction plans will come through the municipal building inspector.

AT POLICEMEN'S CONVENTION

Lower Juvenile Age Asked

A plea for the lowering of the legal juvenile age in this province from 18 to 16 was made at the Western Canada Police Association's annual convention which ended a four-day session at the Ingraham Hotel Friday.

Most other provinces in Canada recognize 16 as the age difference between juveniles and adults.

The convention approved a resolution by the Victoria City Policemen's Union calling for a reduction in the age after hearing claims that the present age limit caused considerable confusion.

The Edmonton City Police

men's Association asked—and received—approval for resolutions urging compulsory automobile insurance; and an extension to other provinces of the present system of car registration used in Alberta.

The latter is based on serial number registration and is claimed to be better in tracking stolen cars.

The convention also agreed to ask provincial attorneys-general to enforce driving licence suspensions or cancellations from other provinces.

At present while suspensions handed down by a court are valid in all provinces, some provinces do not recognize suspensions meted out by a provincial body.

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy.

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes.

The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia, and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Address your questions to "Ask Andy," Victoria Daily Times.

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Patricia Dewey, aged 10, of Visalia, Calif., for her question:

Is a Turtle a Mammal?

There is a lot of confusion about which animals are mammals, so let's get the matter straight once and for all. All the mammals are warm-blooded, air-breathing creatures. All of them have backbones and internal skeletons. Almost all of them have coats of hair or fur and those that do not have a few bristles to show that their ancestors had furry coats. All but a few of the very simple mammals give birth to live babies, most important, every mammal baby is fed on its mother's milk.

So, you see, the turtle cannot pass the mammal test by a long shot. To be sure, he breathes air and he has an internal skeleton. But he is a cold-blooded animal and he wears an armor-plated coat. What's more, he started out life as a round, soft-shelled egg. When he hatched, he set out right away to find his own food. Chances are, he never knew his mother, for she usually lays her eggs in the ground and goes away.

Turtles are classed as reptiles, which makes them the snakes and the lizards. These distant relatives also hatch from round, soft-shelled eggs. When you watch a turtle, you may think he is a lazy old slowpoke. Certainly he seems in no hurry to get anywhere. When threatened, he pulls in his head and his feet and his armor coat protects him from most of his enemies.

This lazy way of living may not seem exciting. But it is safe and successful. Turtles are thought to live longer than any animals in the world. Our little box turtle may live 100 years and some of the big turtles of the Galapagos Islands have lived much longer. What's more, the entire turtle family has lived a long, long time. There were turtles on earth 175 million years ago.

Same Looks, Larger Size

Some of these ancient turtles were much bigger than any of our modern turtles, but they were not much different in appearance. Some of these old granddaddies were 12 feet long and weighed perhaps a ton. There were turtles living successfully on land and sea before the giant dinosaurs came to live on earth.

There were turtles all through the long reign of the dinosaurs. When the giant reptiles perished, the turtles were still there. The ancestors of our modern turtles saw the first birds take to the air and the first snakes appear. Finally, when the turtle family was about one hundred million years old, they saw still another new animal come to live on the earth. This new animal was a mammal and it's children were to become cats, dogs, pigs, seals and all the other mammals that make our world so charming.

Bocage, owned by Jack Hardy of Winnipeg, was third. Count Latham, ridden by Don Ross, covered the mile and one-eighth in one minute, 45.35 seconds over a fast track.

Highly-regarded Wendy Cox was quickly eliminated as opening rounds of the annual Victoria Lawn Tennis and Badminton Club handicap championships got under way Sunday.

Miss Cox was downed 6-8, 6-0 and 6-2 by Margaret Roberts at the start of the week-long tournament.

Another highlight of the day was Barry Seton's 6-1, 7-9, 7-5 win over Thorhill Juelsberg.

Totems to Use Omaha as Farm

SEATTLE (AP)—Seattle Totems of the Western Hockey League will hold their first workout Sept. 18, seven days before an exhibition game with Detroit Red Wings of the National League.

Totem coach Keith Allen also said the team has signed a working agreement with Omaha of the International League, enabling Seattle to send rookies to Omaha for seasoning.

Harris Takes Legion Tourney

Tom Harris Jr. won low gross honors in the Britannia Branch Canadian Legion's annual golf tournament at Uplands Golf Club Sunday.

Harris won a playoff with Gord Pellow on the first extra hole after both had scored 72 for 18 holes.

Brian Kane won low net honors with a net 65, while McArthur was one stroke back with a net 66.

If he does, the spectacular 22-year-old Baltimore shortstop will become the first rookie in major league history ever to be voted the MVP distinction.

A lot depends on whether or not the Orioles win the pennant, of course. Hansen is doing more than his share in that department, too.

HOMER NO. 19

The one-time Vancouver Mountie helped boost them to within 1½ games of first place Sunday with his 19th homer that turned out to be the winning run in a 10-4 victory over the Boston Red Sox. Hansen, who has lost 25 pounds since the season started, has accounted for eight of the 30 homers the Orioles have hit in their last 17 games.

The lanky shortstop also has driven in 71 runs so far and manager Paul Richards frankly confessed, "Without him we'd be dead."

Gus Triandos got the Orioles out in front with a fourth-inning grand slam homer off loser Ike Delock and Hansen's sixth-inning smash proved the clincher. Rookie southpaw Steve Barber earned his eighth win although Wes Stock had to jail him out in the eighth inning.

CHISOX CLIPPED

Victory moved the Orioles into a second-place tie with Chicago White Sox, who lost an 8-1 decision to Kansas City Athletics. Washington Senators defeated the first-place New York Yankees, 7-4, to move into fourth place while Detroit Tigers ran their winning streak to six games with a pair of 6-5 victories over the fading Cleveland Indians.

In the National League, Cincinnati Reds beat the Pittsburgh Pirates, 8-4, and the Milwaukee Braves climbed to within 6½ games of first place with a 3-2 decision over the Philadelphia Phillies. St. Louis blanked Los Angeles Dodgers, 2-0, and Chicago Cubs beat San Francisco Giant, 5-3, in the opener of a doubleheader, then lost the nightcap by the same score.

Ray Herbert enabled the A's to snap a 10-game losing streak when he held the White Sox to three hits.

Harmon Killebrew, Jim Lemon and Bob Allison, Washington's "big three," all hit homers against the Yankees.

Southpaw Warren Spahn achieved his 15th victory for the Braves and Ernie Broglio also won his 15th for the Cardinals. (Scores on page 9.)

Tugmen won the opener 10-6 Thursday.

Victoria midjets also won an Island championship, handing Nanaimo a 22-3 beating that gave them victory in the two-game, total-goals series by a whopping 42-4 margin.

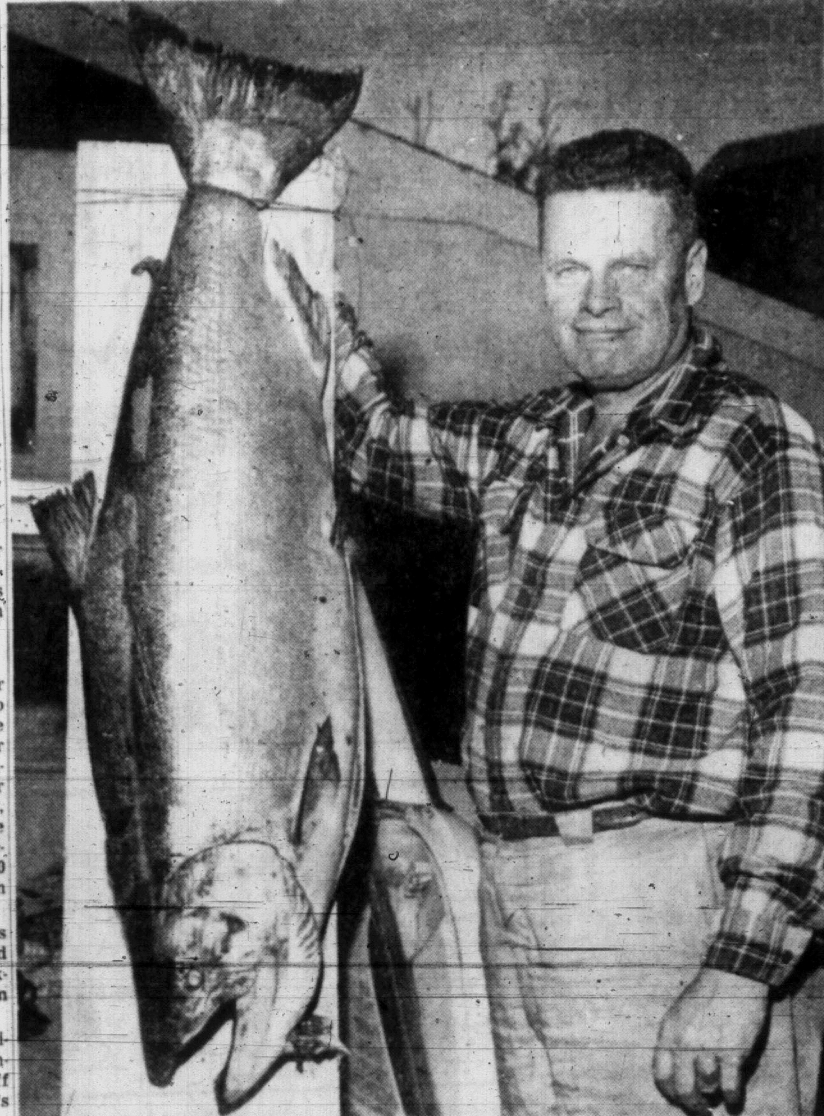

Tugmen now meet Calder's Bluebirds from Vancouver in a two-game total-goal series for the coast title. First game will be held Saturday at 8:30 p.m. at Nanaimo, while the second contest will be staged next Sunday afternoon.

Winners will meet the interior champions over the Labor Day weekend for the B.C. "B" title.

Merv's Catch Enough To Pay for New Shoes

Proud new poppa Merv Campbell won't have to worry about getting baby new shoes.

When he won the Victoria-Saanich Inlet Anglers' Association ladder derby fishoff Sunday, there was never any question which prize he would pick.

He had his choice of a week's vacation at Laguna Beach, Calif., with all expenses paid, or $300 cash.

Mrs. Campbell had just presented Merv with a son this week, so Laguna will have to wait.

Campbell reeled in the price of several dozen pairs of shoes at about 7 a.m. in McKenzie Bay when a 24-pound 10-ounce spring chose to bite at his Strip-Tearer.

NO FLUKE!

It just goes to show you that practice never hurt anyone. Earlier this week Campbell boated a 32-pounder.

Helen Moss also found McKenzie Bay to her liking. With time running out in the derby, she tied into a 20-pound 12-ounce lunger at about 1 p.m. and won a sewing machine, top prize for women.

Third prize of a portable TV set went to John Oliver, who landed a 19-pound 15-ounce.

The main hidden-weight prize of a Grey Cup trip to Vancouver went to Bernie Longpre.

In all, a total of 350 anglers weighed in only 113 salmon, which doesn't add up to particularly spectacular fishing.

They ranged all the way from Campbell's lunger down to the 15-ounce grise that one fisherman—mercifully unidentified—weighed in hopes of copping a hidden-weight prize.

Last year's top three fish all weighed over 24 pounds.

SUE BREEZES TO TITLE

Top-Seeded Duo Cool Challengers

TORONTO (CP)—There were probably two main challengers in the Ontario international tennis championships which ended here Saturday, and both were unsuccessful.

One was the bid of Toronto's 23-year-old former British Columbia player John Swann for his second win against two losses this year to fellow-Torontonian Don Fontana, 29-seeded first in the tournament to Swann's fourth and ranked second in Canada to Swann's ninth.

The second was the longing eyes cast by Eleanor Dodge, Montreal, and Louise Brown and Benita Senn of Toronto at the Ontario championship—and top Canadian ranking—held by 22-year-old Susan Butt of Victoria.

Fontana and Miss Butt beat off their challengers to emerge men's and women's Ontario singles champion respectively.

He outlasted Swann in a semi-final 7-5, 4-6, 6-4, 2-6, 7-5. Saturday, he overcame Toronto's Don Platt in the final 6-1, 6-0, 6-1.

Miss Butt volleyed accurately and drop-shot well to eliminate Mrs. Brown, ranked third nationally, 6-3, 6-2, in the best-of-three women's singles final Saturday.

Fairfield Has Reason To Finish With Rush

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP)—Don Fairfield, 30-year-old pro from Jacksonville, Ill., Sunday won his second tournament in five years by shooting a 22-under-par 206 to win the St. Paul Open at Keller golf course.

Lionel Hebert, who went into the final round tied with Fairfield for the lead, and Billy Casper shared runnerup honors at 268.

Fairfield and Hebert still were tied at 63 holes and then Fairfield birdied the 10th and 11th, both par fours, to take a two-shot lead. Twice Hebert pulled back within a shot, the last time at the 16th hole.

Both went one over on the 17th and then Fairfield birdied the 18th for his margin.

The win was worth $1,300 to Fairfield, while Hebert and Casper got $2,500 apiece.

Sam Snead tied with Don Whit and Al Geiberger at 270 for $1,533 each. Seventh was Gordon Jones, Atlanta, Fla., who picked up $1,300 for his 271. Jerry Barber was eighth at 272 ($1,200) and Art Wall was ninth at 273 ($1,100).

Early Departure Irks Team

ROME (CP)—Unrest was brewing today among Canada's contingent to the 1960 Olympic Games because of an edict that they will be sent home in relays a few days after each particular team's events are concluded.

The edict came out of Canadian headquarters and has had anything but a favorable reception from some of the athletes—and team officials—as well.

Frank Read of Vancouver, coach of the rowing team, was the most vociferous.

"The Games open Thursday, ultra-tight and has been for basketballers arrived in Rome ical condition.

more than a year," said Jim Worrall, of Toronto, general manager of the Canadian contingent.

"Other countries are doing the same thing for the same reason." A meeting of managers of the various teams was scheduled for later today when the whole matter is to be threshed out.

Meanwhile, the plan sticks.

Despite the gloom about home-going, there was a distinct air of optimism so far as the coming competitions are concerned. Most Canadian coaches and managers reported their athletes in top physical condition.

First Win Leaves Lions With Limp

Britton, Jeter On Ailing List For Calgary Game

VANCOUVER—The optimistic Saskatchewan Roughriders and the bruised British Columbia Lions resume hostilities tonight, but this time against other Western Interprovincial Football Union opponents.

Lions gained their first win of the season before 29,532 fans at Empire Stadium Saturday night with a 27-12 victory over the Roughriders.

Tonight they face Calgary Stampede and will be without outside linebacker Bill Britton and possibly without halfback Bob Jeter. Britton injured an ankle and his place will be taken by Don Vassos. Jeter has an injured leg. He went on the trip but is on the doubtful list.

Saskatchewan had no reported injuries after the game.

EXPECTS TO REBOUND

Coach Ken Carpenter said: "We'll try to make up for tonight against Edmonton. I think we can handle them. They haven't the same outside speed as the Lions. Our pass defence learned a few things, too."

"We've got some good boys there. They're coming. A few more games and I'll bet we have about the best pass defence in the league."

Lions' coach Wayne Robinson was also impressed with Saskatchewan.

"There's no comparison between this Roughrider team and last year's. I was sweating all the way. That (Bob) Placock is a fine quarterback."

PLAYOFF PLAY

Saturday's game was in doubt until B.C. broke it open when halfback Willie Fleming hit end Bill Herron on a pass and run play which covered 72 yards for a touchdown.

The play gave B.C. a 12-point lead and all but assured the club of its first win in three starts. Veteran guard Vic Kristapaitis sewed it up minutes later, kicking a field goal.

Fleming, a 21-year-old speedster from Iowa, caught a pass from quarterback Randy Duncan, another Iowa graduate, for one of B.C.'s other two touchdowns. Jeter ran 16 yards through the middle of the Saskatchewan line for the other.

TOP SCORER

Kristapaitis led the scorers, kicking two field goals and converting all three touchdowns for nine points.

Saskatchewan got its points on a touchdown by halfback Bobby Renn, a field goal and a convert by guard Reg Whitehouse and a safety touch.

The losers missed a great scoring chance on the safety touch when end Jack Gotta struck the goal post with his shoulder after taking a pass at the Lions' one-yard line in the third quarter. Jeter was crushed for the two points.

B.C. led from the outset. Lions were in front 7-0 after the first quarter and 14-0 at the half. They held a 17-12 edge entering the fourth quarter.

However, the Roughriders made it a close fight most of the way, and displaying unusual defensive and offensive patterns, held an edge in most of the statistics.

COMPLETES 18 PASSES

The losers had 24 first downs on 245 yards passing, and 116 yards rushing. Quarterback Placock, a first-year man from Cleveland Browns of the NFL, completed 18 of 31 passes.

Lions had 19 first downs on 214 yards passing and 167 yards rushing. Quarterback Duncan completed 10 of 19 passes, while Fleming converted one of three.

Saskatchewan used a spread formation throughout. Defensively, the team used extra linebackers instead of defensive ends and occasionally had eight men on the line—a move that cut the wide running of Fleming and Jeter to a minimum.

The basketball squad found out they'll be heading for home in a few days.

Despite the gloom about home-going, there was a distinct air of optimism so far as the coming competitions are concerned. Most Canadian coaches and managers reported their athletes in top physical condition.

The unrest started to simmer when Canada's abashed and their athletes in top physical condition.

Tame Tabbies Drop to Cellar

HAMILTON (CP)—Hamilton Tiger-Cats' tails sorely-twisted, sank to the bottom of the Big Four Football League with a dull thud Saturday night.

Ottawa Rough Riders sauntered through Hamilton's defence with skill, speed and frequency to run up a 35-6 victory.

Tigers, last year's Big Four champs, now have a 0-2 record. They lost their league opener 23-10 to Montreal Alouettes in Montreal.

Saturday even the hometown fans booed as the Tabbies, playing like kittens, let the score mount to 35-0 before crossing the Ottawa line.

JACKSON, THELEN STAR

Canadian quarter back Russell Jackson and import fullback Dave Thelen were Ottawa's big stars. Jackson called the shots and Thelen went for 192 yards on 23 carries. Each had a touchdown.

Joe Kelly carried for another Ottawa touchdown. Tackle Milt Graham picked up a Duane Wood fumble deep in the Hamilton end zone for a fourth, and import quarter back Ron Lancaster added the fifth off an intercepted pass.

Hamilton finally scored in the fourth quarter when Paul Dekker caught a pass from quarter Bernie Faloney just over the Ottawa line. However, Gerry McDougall's convert attempt was blocked.

Gary Schreider converted three Ottawa touchdowns. Schreider got a single off an attempted field goal and the other Ottawa point was earned by Jim Conroy when Wood was roughed on a first-quarter kick.

OLYMPIC BRIEFS

Canadian Gals Well Dressed

ROME (CP)—Canada's girl athletes have the biggest wardrobes at the Olympics—four complete outfits.

One is a casual dress for travelling. Another is for the flag-raising ceremony. A third is for the inaugural parade and the fourth is for formal receptions and parties.

The designer is Mrs. Myrtle Cook MacGowan of Montreal, who designed uniforms for the last three Olympics and ran the anchor leg on Canada's gold-medal-winning 400-metre women's relay team at the 1928 Games.

Korea's athletes are happy at last. They began cooking their own rice Sunday. The rice at the Olympic village restaurant "just didn't suit us at all," said Cho Tang-jae, a Korean team official. He went shopping Saturday for pots and pans, and volunteers from Korean athletes and officials took over the cooking job.

Italy's athletes—350 of them

—lined up Sunday for their flag-raising ceremony and found themselves smack in the middle of a strike.

About 20 photographers from the world's press staged it. Before the ceremony, an official at Olympic village told the photographers to stand off to one side. They said they couldn't take pictures from there. The official said they would lose their accreditation if they didn't behave.

The photographers promptly packed their cameras and turned their backs on the ceremony. Even the photographers from Italy's state-owned television company joined in the strike.

The Olympic village telephone centre has telephone books for just about every good-sized European city except one—Rome.

NANAIMO IN FINAL

It's Up to Cowichan To Act as Spoilers

Unless Cowichan throws a monkey wrench into proceedings, the finalists in the Victoria and District Cricket Association "Knockout Cup" tournament have been all but decided.

Nanaimo clinched a berth in the final Saturday by beating Alcos by 48 runs at Windsor Park. The win left them undefeated and unassailable atop one division in the two-section tournament.

Then Albions took a major step towards top spot in the other section by defeating Incogs by seven wickets at University School, Sunday.

Albions will meet Cowichan (which hasn't won a game), next week, while Incogs play Five C's. Should Cowichan do the improbable and win, it would open the door for Five C's to tie. They play Incogs.

If Cowichan loses, however,

Dream Course Proves Nightmare to Yanks

PICTON, Ont. (CP)—The Harmsworth Trophy—highest prize in international powerboat racing—will remain in Canada for another year.

And anyone who wants it will have to come and get it.

Canada's Miss Supertest III—which won the championship in Detroit last year—successfully defended it in record fashion on the Long Reach of the Bay of Quinte, Saturday.

She beat off a faltering challenge by three United States boats in two straight heats.

After the race, Mel Cook, of New York, spokesman for the Harmsworth trustees of England, said the next Harmsworth will also be held on the Long Reach, described by the drivers as "a dream course."

The dream became a nightmare for United States powerboating, which had ruled international competition for 39 years until Miss Supertest took the trophy last year.

In Friday's first heat the Wilmington, Del., boat Nitrogen, running with an off-size propeller, was nearly lapped by the Canadian challenger.

On Saturday, the main U.S. hope—Gale V, which came second Friday—found she couldn't start her big Allison engine and lay dead in the water while the race went on.

Misfortune hit the third U.S. boat in the all-or-nothing attempt to outrun Supertest. Nitrogen, too, the last healthy American entry, blew her supercharger.

Supertest III was built to win the Harmsworth. Jim Thompson, 34-year-old London, Ont., oil company president, designed her as a boat to take the 45-mile grind at high speeds.

Driver Bob Hayward of Embury, Ont., who handled her in both Harmsworths—Supertest III has run in only two other events—has never had her wide open.

However, he opened her up wide enough Friday to raise his own lap record—109.334 miles an hour on a three-mile Detroit course—to 124.82 miles an hour over the five-mile course here. Saturday he raised that mark to 126.22.

The 45-mile course record, which he also set in Detroit, he raised to 116.464 from 104.098.

ONE-MAN TEAM FINDS LIFE CAN BE LONELY

RÔME (AP)—Filipino Segmundo Macalalad rates among the loneliest men in the Olympic village. He's his country's one-man boxing team in the 1960 games.

He works on the road all by himself at seven a.m., arranges his own diet, and then squeezes in with the Ghana boxing team for workouts.

That's the Olympic life for the 20-year-old flyweight. "Yes, sometimes I do feel lonely," he admitted today.

Gorge Thrives On Tough Trail

They call Gorge Hotel it's easy to see why.

The Gorgemans finished last in regular league play, but Sunday at Central Park they moved within one game of the city senior "A" championship by beating Farmer Construction, 5-4.

It was their sixth straight playoff victory.

Gorge will meet Farmers again Tuesday and they could wrap up the title at that time. Right now they head the best-of-seven series, 3-0.

In the Central senior "B" final, meanwhile, Tudor House will be fighting to get back into contention when they meet Sooke Building tonight at 6:15.

Sooke leads the best-of-seven final, 2-0, after a 9-0 victory on Sunday.

For once Stan Wargo didn't have a hand in the Gorge victory. The sturdy Wargo had appeared in all five previous playoff wins but this time Ed Foychuck didn't need any help as he set Farmers down on seven hits.

Only Tom Bourne got to him consistently, hitting a single and two doubles. Tim Walker belted a seventh-inning home run to provide the only other dangerous Farmer blow.

THREE-RUN BLAST—Big hit for Gorge was Stan Stewart's sixth-inning three-run homer.

Maycock Optical, meanwhile, tied the Heywood Avenue Park senior "B" semi-Navy, 3-0. Navy ace Terry McLaren struck out 14 batters and gave up only one earned run in losing a tough one.

RELYING ON VANCOUVER—The three-day Canadian lawn bowling championships open in Edmonton today. All B.C. representatives are from Vancouver.

Discipline, Keith Says, As Important as Swing

OTTAWA (CP)—Keith Alexander, going about the job almost impassively, won the Canadian amateur golf championship Saturday and proved once again that there is more to the game than the proper swing and the right club.

The 30-year-old Calgarian, dedicated to the principle that in match play a golfer has to master himself first and his opponent second, defeated Gary Cowan, of Toronto, 4 and 3 in a final 36-hole test over the tough Ottawa Hunt and Golf Club course.

Cowan, 21, runner-up for the second straight year, never had the lead but put up a stiff battle after falling three holes down to Alexander after the first nine holes. However, he was erratic on tee and fairway, hooking and pushing his shots.

"I was disgusted with myself, and it showed in my game," he said later.

LEARNED CONTROL—Alexander said that was the one thing he refused to let himself do. Self-discipline on the course is one of the first lessons he absorbed when he did to his poorest ones—expressionless.

"I guess that's just my nature," he said later.

For Alexander, an easy-swinging 137-pounder, it was his sixth shot at the amateur crown. The farthest he got previously was the quarter-finals in Calgary in 1955. Last year at Vancouver he was knocked out in the first round by an American.

taking professional instruction 11 years ago.

Recalling that last year Cowan put up a thrilling rally in losing the final one-up to Johnny Johnston of Vancouver, Alexander said he was prepared to go the full 36 holes against Cowan because he knew the young Torontonian was capable of firing "three or four birdies in a row."

But the match ended on the 33rd green.

"Gary's trouble was that he got mad at himself," Alexander said.

Canada-Wide Steel Strike Threatens

By The Canadian Press
Steelworkers across Canada, employees of the Dominion Bridge Company Ltd. and its subsidiaries, have voted with near unanimity that they should strike against the company should contract demands of the parent United Steelworkers of America (USLW) union not be accepted.

With workers in Montreal and Toronto already on strike, workers in major Prairie cities Friday also voted to strike.

In Calgary, 270 union members went on strike at midnight Friday following an afternoon vote of 201 for striking and 56 against.

A company spokesman said Saturday is normally a non-working day at the plant, so the full effect of the strike will not be felt until Monday.

The Edmonton local of the union is waiting with members from Winnipeg and Regina, until the outcome of a union meeting in Toronto Monday, before they announce their intended strike plans. The workers voted 120-106 to strike.

The union is seeking higher wages from the company as well as fringe benefits, including a national pension plan, a national welfare plan and a national unemployment plan.

Canadian Exports Up 8.3 Per Cent

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's exports marked up an advance in July of 8.3 per cent from a year earlier despite continued softness of United States markets.

Bureau of statistics figures showed today that although shipments to the U.S. slumped 11.7 per cent from July, 1959, total exports reached $465,000,000 in the month compared with $429,400,000 a year earlier.

The advance, fifth month-to-month gain this year, boosted total exports in the January-July period to $3,067,200,000, up 8.4 per cent from $2,830,700,000.

July exports to the U.S. fell to $249,300,000 from $282,200,000.

Offsetting the drop in U.S. sales was a sharp gain in July exports to the United Kingdom, which rose to $88,900,000 from $52,700,000 a year ago, and to non-Commonwealth countries other than the U.S. to $88,600,000 for the month from $67,400,000 last year.

July exports to Commonwealth countries other than Britain rose slightly to $28,200,000 from $27,100,000.

STUDENTS HOME FROM EUROPE SINGING, SHOUTING

'Show Us the Way to Go Home'

By NORMAN CRIBBENS

Victoria students have a ready audience this week in all the friends and relations who want to hear about their seven-week tour of Europe.

There was travel talk in many homes over the weekend as 166 high school and university students recounted their adventures in England, France, Belgium, Holland, Switzerland, Italy, Austria and Germany.

"It was wonderful—but I'm glad to be home," seemed to be the average reaction.

Proud parents, with relations and friends, turned out in their hundreds Saturday afternoon when the Canadian Pacific steamer Princess Marguerite brought the singing, shouting students into the Inner Harbor.

"Three cheers for Victoria!" called one, and the responsive cheers were full and loud.

The foredeck of the steamer was packed with youngsters and the crowds pressed forward for a closer view as they came alongside.

'We're Tired and We Want to Go to Bed'

"Show us the way to go home, we're tired and we want to go to bed," sang a party of male students wearing bowler-hats with their green blazers. (The bowlers had been purchased in a London theatrical store for $1 each).

Overcast skies and a chilly breeze did nothing to detract from the warmth of the welcome as fathers and mothers rushed forward to embrace their offspring with smiles and tears.

One of the students carried a "Go Grit" banner off the steamer. She was Nan Gregory, daughter of George Gregory, Liberal candidate for Victoria in the Sept. 12 provincial election.

Many of the girls wore Tyrolean hats purchased during their visit to Berchtesgaden in the Bavarian Alps. All carried numerous souvenirs from the different countries.

Most of the students said they liked England best. An exception was Valerie Tysoe, daughter of Dr. J. F. Tysoe of 3380 Upper Terrace, who preferred Paris.

"It is gay and sparkling," she said, "and everyone seems to enjoy living. The city is beautifully laid out, with splendid buildings and fine art galleries. So much to see . . ."

'You Have to Get Used to European Food'

Bruce Hardy of Victoria High School was welcomed by his father, William K. Hardy, who is a teacher at Victoria Central Junior High School.

"It was a grand trip but I'm sure glad to be home," said Bruce. "The food in Europe takes a bit of getting used to—but in England it is more like our own."

The students travelled across Canada both ways by rail and all agreed this was a good idea.

"You get a much better impression of the country that way," said David Angus, a student at Oak Bay High.

Many found Venice disappointing after all they had read of the famous Italian resort.

"Most of the buildings are old and dirty and the canal stinks," observed Hugh Skillings, son of Mr. and Mrs. Waldo Skillings, 1721 Rockland Avenue. "Apart from that, it is rich in history and tradition."

Penny Dalby of Oak Bay High wore a fancy hat she bought in Venice.

"I liked England best," she said, "especially London which has something for everyone. It is a wonderful old city."

Roy Mercer, the Oak Bay High School teacher who planned and organized the tour, said it went off well without illness or accident.

"The students were a credit to Canada," he said. "No one went adrift and all behaved very well. I noticed some of them showed considerable shrewdness in seeking out bargains. They didn't just buy anything that was pushed at them."

Mr. Mercer is already lining up a tour for 220 lower mainland students next year.

"It is a fine thing for our youngsters to see other countries at first-hand and learn to understand them better," he said.

Victorians Awarded British Fellowships

Two Victorians are among 40 Canadian engineers selected for British government fellowships that will give them two years of advanced training in British industry and universities.

They are:
R. P. D. Round, 26, 1511 Shorncliffe, who has worked as a civil engineer with B.C. Hydro since graduating from University of B.C. in 1957;
David W. Brown, 22, son of retired Prof. Lorne A. and Mrs. Brown, 3965 Locarno Lane, who graduated this spring in electrical engineering from UBC.

The Athlone Fellowships provide transportation, tuition and other expenses for the winners as well as a 10-pound weekly subsistence income.

LEAVE IN SEPTEMBER

Both Victorians will leave early in September for England.

Mr. Round will spend the first year on the engineering staff of a large hydro-electric

Search Called Off For Climbers

VANCOUVER (CP) — A mountain rescue expert has advised against any effort to find the bodies of four mountaineers on Mt. Waddington.

Ian Kay, executive board chairman of the mountain rescue group, made a flight over the scene and reported that heavy snow has fallen over the area of the fatal avalanche, obliterating all tracks and traces of the lost party's camp.

"There is considerable danger of further avalanche and without tracks searchers would face an almost impossible task," he said.

Cholera Kills 500

LAHORE, West Pakistan (AP)—An epidemic of cholera which has swept the West Pakistan area has killed more than 500 persons, 33 during the last three days. The hardest hit district is Sialkot, bordering the Kashmir state, where about 300 have died.

'Touchy Proposals' Set for UBCM Meet

Victoria Geared For Fight

By JOHN MIKA

At least three Victoria resolutions will touch off controversial debates next month when the Union of B.C. Municipalities meets for its 57th annual convention.

The city proposals would:

Channel a part of federal income tax revenue directly into local school budgets; set up a year-round relief work program to replace the existing winter work program; and establish permanent arbitration boards, headed by judges, for settling disputes between municipalities and their police and firemen.

These proposals will arouse as much discussion as a resolution from the North-Central B.C. Municipal Association urging the provincial government to introduce legislation "so as to permit Sunday sports in any municipality where a plebiscite shows a majority in favor."

TRAILER TAXATION

Another resolution showing promise of heated words is a demand, by a UBCM committee, that the provincial government tax trailers used as permanent homes and distribute the revenue among municipalities as a payment in lieu of property taxes.

Saanich council also has a couple of touchy proposals on the agenda.

One of these would entitle councillors to participate in the provincial superannuation plan so they could draw pensions after 10 years of service as elected officials.

The other asks for provincial legislation allowing municipalities to set up reserve funds—to which all subdivisions would have to contribute—which would be used for buying land to establish parks and recreational grounds in new subdivisions.

Among other Victoria resolutions is a request for provincial legislation putting a Feb. 15 deadline on completion of all annual working agreements between municipalities and civic unions.

All told, 13 of the 86 resolutions to be considered by the Sept. 21-23 convention in New Westminster, will be sponsored by Greater Victoria municipalities.

Victoria and Saanich have submitted six each and Esquimalt has proposed one.

Rain Postpones Horse Games

Because of heavy rain Sunday afternoon the 11th annual gymkhana of Colwood Trail Riders was postponed to next Sunday.

It will be held at Tower Point, Albert Head starting at 1 p.m., and officials said today "it will go this time rain or shine."

On Saturday the Colwood group will stage a show at the Luxton Fair starting at 1.30 p.m.

ASK THE TIMES

Q. Will you please tell me as to whether any citizen has the power, or right, to influence the press—against having any of said publications printing certain letters that any of the readers may write? E.H.

A. Letters received from readers stand on their own merits, based on general interest and lucidity. Not all letters received have these characteristics and therefore may not be used. If a letter is long and the subject matter, on the editor's decision, does not warrant the space, it also would not be used. However, long letters are not merely filed away because of their length if they have a message of seeming importance.

Q. What is Regina's altitude? O.W.

A. Regina is 1,885 feet above sea level.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem along to The Times, addressed to "Ask the Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily. All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve problems of legal problems. Very few attempts to put a value on old coins, stamps or collectibles. These should be submitted to dealers.

'Fast-Draw' Stops Suspect in Forgery

A Victorian faced two forgery charges in Colwood RCMP court today after a citizen's arrest of a suspect at gunpoint late Saturday afternoon.

The two charges are the first of what is expected to be a series in Greater Victoria police courts against a ring dealing in altered money orders.

James Patrick McDonald, 2635 Rose, was remanded for plea to next Monday when he appeared at a special court sitting this morning.

He was charged with uttering a forged money order for $99.35 at View Royal Super Market, 246 1/2 Island Highway, and with attempting to deal in a forgery for $99.50 at Six Mile House beer parlor.

The manager, William Hollick, held a .38 pistol on a man who tried to leave his premises after presenting a money order for payment.

Police said Hollick became suspicious after receiving a telephone warning of bogus money orders from Colwood RCMP.

He said a man entered his premises at 4.45, asking to cash a money order. Hollick told him to sit down for a few minutes and took the order away.

"I went upstairs and telephoned the RCMP. Then I took a .38 pistol and waited outside the men's entrance."

The suspect emerged and was told to stay where he was. Moments later he was in handcuffs as the police arrived in response to Hollick's call.

SUSPICIOUS

Police were first tipped off by an Esquimalt hotel keeper who called Esquimalt police when he became suspicious of a man trying to cash a money order earlier in the day.

When Esquimalt police began investigating, they learned another hotel in the municipality had already cashed a similar money order a short time before.

The suspect in the second case left before the arrival of police. However, a description of him and a suspected accomplice was circulated to other departments.

MONTE ROBERTS

It's getting so you can't tell the satellites without a program.

The above is not a flippant remark. It is the plaintive cry of an old geezer who has the feeling progress has passed him by.

This old geezer just can't keep up with things. Born at a time when it was quite acceptable to say ooh! aah! and goodness gracious! this old geezer can't seem to get adjusted to the "izzasno?" attitude presently current in the world.

To show you what this old geezer means, he was watching a baseball game in Seattle last Friday night.

(The fact he was in Victoria while watching the baseball game in Seattle doesn't rate the tiniest ooh or the smallest aah, even without exclamation points.)

And somewhere along about the second or third inning, with nobody on and nobody out and the score tied nothing to nothing, the television camera shied away from the baseball diamond and took a look at the sky.

Across the sky moved a brightly shining, roundish object.

The play-by-play announcer said, in a matter-of-fact tone, "There's a pretty good view of a satellite." Then his voice timbred upward into excitement "There's a good bunt along the first base line... oops, it rolled foul."

The camera dutifully recorded the bunt rolling foul, then went back to the sky.

Remarkably the announcer: "There's the satellite again... oh, oh, he hit a long one to centre field... is it going out of there?... nope, he was caught out."

The camera did its duty once more, showing the centre fielder making the catch.

And while he was waiting for the next man to come to bat, the announcer filled time by saying: "Wonder which satellite that was?"

An anonymous voice in the background allowed as how that was probably Echo I, and the announcer said, "oh, yeah, that's the one we bounce radio and television signals off."

So this old geezer turned off the set and went to bed without knowing who won the ball game.

Although he did hear later that Echo I crossed over the field once more—after having circled the earth—long before the last out in the ninth inning.

Nothing, of course, to cause excitement and wonder, unless you're an old geezer whom progress has passed by.

Balloon Bomb Fear Recalled By Memorial

Dedication of a memorial Saturday in Port Angeles to North America's only adult victim of the Japanese balloon bombs recalled today the 1945 threat the bombs posed to Victoria and Western Canada.

The giant paper balloons cascaded down in unknown quantities, released from mainland Japan.

The memorial at Port Angeles is to Elsie Winters Mitchell, who with five children was killed at Bly, Ore., May 5, 1945, when a balloon loaded with explosives was detonated by one of the children.

Mrs. Mitchell and her husband, a minister, were taking the children on a picnic.

One of the children found the collapsed balloon in a field and pulled at the detonating device. Mr. Mitchell was away from the site when the explosion took place.

Two Port Angeles veterans organizations sponsored the memorial at Ocean-View Cemetery.

250 ON CANADA

About 250 bombs fell on Canadian territory.

Some were shot down by the RCAF. At Coal Harbor, B.C. crew of one aircraft found a balloon down intact by using the plane's slipstream as a steering guide.

A special fire-fighting force was organized on Vancouver Island to meet the forest fire threat posed by the bombs.

'Festive Season' Here for Farmers

By HUMPHRY DAVY

More than $200,000 worth of livestock, poultry and farm products from Saanich representing many hours of labor and culture, have started to make the rounds of fairs on the mainland and Vancouver Island.

The "show" got on the road at the Nanaimo Fair which ended Saturday, and will continue through to Sept. 9-10 when the last major Island fair is held at Duncan.

"It's the farmers' festive season, and I suppose it is as much so for the farm animals on exhibition," said Willard Mitchell, president of the Saanichton Farmers' Institute, a well-known fair exhibitor.

COSTS MONEY

Farmers, he pointed out, go to considerable expense to show their farm animals and to compete in fair competitions.

"They show the best of their year's work, the best that the earth can produce," he said.

Some of the main South Vancouver Island exhibitors include Alex Turner, Trans-Canada Highway, beef cattle and sheep; William Taylor, Central Saanich, Holstein; R. L. Muir, Mount Newton Cross Roads.

Jerseys; William and Jim Turner, Saanich, Shorthorns; William Loch, Glen Lake, sheep; Patrick Hoole, Oldfield Road, Jerseys; J. S. Judge, Burnside Road, Holstein; Woodwyn Farm, Brentwood, Aberdeen Angus.

The majority of Saanich exhibitors took part in Nanaimo's three-day exhibition which was attended by more than 11,000 persons, 1,000 more than the previous record set centennial year.

On Saturday, the closing day of the fair, 6,000 persons crowded the grounds. The attendance is a good omen for other fairs scheduled this month.

Most Saanich exhibits at the Nanaimo Fair, reinforced with additional stock, was shipped to the Pacific National Exhibition which opened in Vancouver Saturday.

There livestock breeders, dairymen and growers are competing for top provincial prizes.

The fair is expected to be well-attended this week by members of Saanich farming community.

LUXTON NEXT

The next major fair scheduled for local farmers is the Luxton Exhibition which has been increasing in size and interest in the last few years. It will be held this Friday and Saturday.

The Saanichton Fair—south Vancouver Island major exhibition—will be held as usual on the Labor Day weekend, Sept. 3 and 5.

The fair's program this year includes a bigger and better horse show, 4-H Club competitions, and one of the largest exhibitions of farm products and home crafts.

Other Island fairs will be held at Sooke on Sept. 10 and at Cobble Hill on Sept. 7.

NAVAL SHIP MOVEMENTS

Sussexvale returns Aug. 29. Cowichan, Fortune, James Bay, Miramichi return Aug. 31. Ottawa, Ste. Therese return Sept. 8. Saguenay returns Sept. 9.

'Moody' Weather Pattern Keeps Everybody Guessing

An eerie blend of sun and storm hit Victoria Sunday afternoon with menacing black clouds, intermittent lightning, thunder and heavy rain.

The thunder and rain spread over southern Vancouver Island, northern Washington and the lower mainland, giving way to sunny periods in the evening.

Lights flickered on and off in some parts of the city and one local radio station went off the air for about three minutes.

A similar mixture of cloud and sun was expected this afternoon and evening with more showers tonight and early Tuesday, according to weatherman William Mackie.

Sunday's rainfall measured 42 inches at Pat Bay Airport, 21 inches at Gonzales Weather Observatory, 44 in the Tillamook area, 47 at Nanaimo, 43 at Seattle, 63 at Abbotsford and 73 at Vancouver.

TOPICS OF THE DAY

After his car was in an accident at Cook and Pembroke, Allan John Watson, 1402 Stanley, went to call police, disappeared in a nearby backyard and was not seen again for two days.

In city police court today, Watson, also known as House, pleaded guilty to four charges bringing a total $145 in fines: failing to remain at the scene of an accident, $75; careless driving, $35; driving without a licence, $25; and failing to make accident reports, $10.

Accused said he had borrowed the car and was driving on the public streets for the first time in about 20 years.

Permission to drop leaflets from the air to advertise the Louis (Satchmo) Armstrong concert was requested of city council today by Victoria Cosmopolitan Club. The concert by the famed jazz band leader will be held Sept. 17 in Memorial Arena.

A public meeting on the proposed sign bylaw will be held Wednesday at 8 p.m. in city council chambers.

Winners of the master point tournament held by Victoria Unit, American Contract Bridge League, were:

North-South—1. Simon Markink, Gordon Rodger, 2. Jim Duprau, Jack Goldie, 3. Lillian LeButt, Guy Dickson.

East-West—1. Isabel Ariett, Lillian Goodwin, 2. Mr. and Mrs. J. Brown, 3. Stan Tricky Albert Jorgenson.

Tuesday Meetings

Victoria Kiwanis: Noon, Empress Hotel. H. B. McLean on "Fads, Facts, Fallacies and Forgeries."

Victoria North Kiwanis: 6.15 p.m., Monterey Restaurant. No speaker work on St. David's-by-the-Sea project.

James Arnold Harkness, Work Point, was fined $250 when he pleaded guilty in city police court today to a charge of impaired driving on Johnson Street.

He was remanded for probation report on licence suspension.

About a dollar in change was stolen from a cookie jar by a thief who crawled in the window of a Fairfield house overnight Saturday.

S. M. Rundell, 1957 Fairfield Place, told police the burglary happened while he was away for the night. A window had been left insecure.

The B.C. government has issued a $250 grant to the Canadian Writers' Foundation.

The grant follows a request for aid at the foundation's convention here last month. A government official today confirmed the money has been sent to cover the balance of the current fiscal year.

Glen Lake has been reopened for fishing by the provincial recreation department.

Re-stocked with rainbow trout, the lake now is almost clear of coarse fish.

It was closed in August last year and underwent thorough chemical treatment to get rid of bass, carp, catfish and sunfish.

In city police court today: Roy L. Green, 2312 Victor, $20 for failing to stop at a red light.

Clifford Walter Chudy, Brentwood, $10 each for driving with inadequate hand brake, no horn and no mirror.

Irene Day, 1740 Amphion, $10 for violation of driver's licence restriction.

Harold G. Carson, 185 Olive, $15 for opening driver's door when unsafe.

Jeff Hingley, 1716 Fort, $10 for driving a bicycle without a light.

Unemployment is the biggest issue in the current election campaign, says Victoria Liberal candidate Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow, now on a house-to-house canvass of the city.

"I hear heart-breaking stories everywhere," he says, "and many people are hoping the Liberals will do something about it—as we have done in the past."

Tonight Ald. Edgelow will share the platform at a rally in Sir James Douglas School with fellow candidates George Gregory and Forrest L. Shaw.

"We are much heartened by the wonderful campaign rally we had in Vancouver over the weekend," Ald. Edgelow said. (See Page 3.)

As the RCAF Golden Hawks roared over the city Saturday afternoon, a man turned to Conservative campaign manager Tom Austin and said:

"Is this part of the Liberals' razzle-dazzle campaign?"

TRAFFIC FINES

In city police court today: Roy L. Green, 2312 Victor, $20 for failing to stop at a red light.

'Heart-Breaking Stories by Unemployed'

A Victoria Conservative called to say his wife has Social Credit leanings.

"I wish you had the spunk of the government," she told him. "They don't allow being in debt to stop them spending money."

At least two of the 160 Victoria students touring Europe found it hard to forget B.C. politics... Nan Gregory, and Hugh Skillings, son of Social Credit contender Waldo Skillings, got into a number of arguments en route, according to their friends.

And Nan was carrying a "Go Grit" banner when the students landed back here Saturday afternoon.

Is dusty prairie Regina a threat to the garden city of Victoria?

CCF candidate Mrs. M. Campbell thinks it may be so. "It's amazing what they have done there," she said after a trip to Regina for the CCF national convention last week.

"I left in 1937 in the depth of the depression when the streets were dusty and rough. The boulevards are now beautiful and the beauty of the gardens makes me wonder whether Regina could not equal or even surpass Victoria."

Wenner-Gren is the "invisible candidate" in the election campaign, according to Tom Berger, CCF candidate for Vancouver Centre.

"A vote for Social Credit is a vote for Wenner-Gren," he told a Vancouver audience Sunday night. "He is the invisible candidate—the man Canadian businessmen were forbidden to deal with during the war."

Herbert Bruch, long-term Social Credit member for Esquimalt, finds electioneering a full-time job in his scattered riding. It is broken up into 29 communities extending as far as Jordan River.

Tonight he is addressing an election rally at Shawinigan Lake—and nine more are slated in the Esquimalt riding before polling day.

SHOPPING GUIDE

Closure of Downtown Store Means Big Savings for You

By PENNY SAVER

If you want to really save pennies you should certainly pay a visit to one downtown store that's decided to go out of business and is selling off its entire stock at unbelievably low prices. Does it seem that you're forever replacing nylon stockings? Take heart and get some of the pairs that this store is selling at 43 cents. These are standbys — but believe me, the flaws are hard to find — and stockings come mostly in a versatile medium brown shade. All are popular seamless type — perfect for teenagers who just haven't the time to keep straightening back seams!

Better class seamless stockings in all shades, including a few blacks and greys, are priced at 89 cents. Regular price of these is $1.55 a pair.

Many women prefer nylon stockings that are more comfortable to wear because of the cotton feet with which they're finished. These are sometimes difficult to find but this store has a good stock of all sizes in various shades. Stockings come in 45 gauge and 30 denier — best of all — the new low price is 69 cents a pair!

Car coats, too, are included in this sale. Ones that sell at $7.33 are both smart and useful. Collars and top band of the two front pockets are in leather while the coat is made of a sturdy drill that will stand up to many hours of hard wear. All are neatly finished with silk linings. Coats in royal blue, red or light green have black leather trim while there's a particularly attractive model in beige that has a bon leather finish. These come in sizes 12 to 20 and formerly sold at $9.95.

Gay striped celanese linings are in another car coat that's now priced at $5.98. These have been reduced from $8.98. Of heavy cotton, coats come in either red or blue and have matching knitted collars and pocket trim.

Should you have a daughter that's been hankering for a leather car coat she'll be interested to know that this store is selling their last four white leather coats at $8.15 each. Original price tag said $11.95. Collar and cuffs and border that highlights front opening are in smart black and white cotton-knit. Coats have leather buttons on tone and are fully lined in white silk. There are two in size 10 and one in size 12 and 16.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Married and Working? Here Are Suggestions

Suggestions for the married woman who works:

1. Your energy must of necessity, be spread pretty thin between your home and your job. You only have so much. Therefore, you cannot afford the worry habit. Discipline yourself in this. Do what you can about problems but don't mull them over in between "takes" at the office and at home. Worry takes more energy than road work! AND, if you must worry, for heaven's sake, don't worry about non-essentials.
2. Keep your sense of humor. This will save you! If you don't have one, you had better develop one — and fast!
3. You have some bonuses, if you will recognize them and take advantage of them. The first thing you must do is to admit to yourself that you cannot do everything! If you swing your home life and your job successfully, you should have a medal. Your leisure is limited and because of that it can and should be very selective.
4. People will forgive you for not doing a lot of things you would naturally have done, had you not had a job outside of your home. Cherish your leisure and spend it in ways which are enriching to your life as an individual and to the life of your family.

Josephine

4. Spend as much of your weekend outdoors as is possible, situation and weather permitting. The sedentary life is destructive to health and energy and prolonged youthfulness.
5. You cannot afford ill health or a low level of energy. If you are to succeed at your two jobs you must give thought to your health. This means good nutrition, exercise, and enough sleep and relaxation. Snag them whenever you can!
6. Somewhere along the line you must also work in beauty care, but really this does not take a lot of time. Good nutrition and weekly care of nails and hair and daily cleansing and lubrication of your skin are uncomplicated essentials. Just in case you may think that I do not know what I am talking about, I myself have had a delightful and diverting family and a highly competitive career for many years.

Daughter of Winnipeg Couple Wed

A wedding of interest in Winnipeg and Victoria took place in Central Baptist Church, Saturday, when Carol Joy Soderstrom became the bride of Donald M. Richardson. Rev. R. D. Holmes officiated. The bride is the daughter of Rev. R. W. Soderstrom and Mrs. Soderstrom of Winnipeg. The groom is the son of Mrs. Henry Richardson, 2923 Dysart Road.

White gladioli, stocks and dahlias were on the altar and white and pink gladioli, white stocks and foliage decorated the chancel. Tiny horseshoes of white chrysanthemums, tied with white ribbon and wedding bells marked pews.

Entering the church on the arm of her father, the bride wore a self-designed gown of white satin. It had a scalloped neckline and lily point sleeves and the full skirt of taffeta brocade which swept back to a chapel train featured a front satin panel. A dainty cap, studded with pearls and sequins, held the fingertip-length tulle veil.

Rapture roses, stephanotis and white stock florettes formed her cascade bouquet. Only jewelry was a string of pearls.

Showers Honor Miss Keifer Before Wedding This Week

At termination of six years employment, as clerk-typist at Naval Supply Depot, Colwood, a surprise shower was given Miss Carol Keifer, bride-elect, by women members of the staff. Coffee and a good-luck cake were served, following which Miss Keifer was presented with a General Electric toaster by fellow workers.

A shower was held at the Linden Avenue home of Mrs. George Bennett, recently, in honor of Miss Keifer, whose wedding takes place Saturday at 8 p.m. in Fairfield United Church. A buffet luncheon was served from a table centred with a good-luck cake and floral arrangements. Gifts were in a plastic laundry basket, decorated with pink and white streamers. Other guests included Mary Youson, Faith Webster, Enid Webster, Joyce Westoby, Gwen Kushner, Glenda Potter, Sandra Colman, Margaret Keifer, Anna Belle Hurdon, Blanche Wilson, Misses Norah Bennett and Marlene Wilson. ## Swedish Teacher at Local Handweavers' Guild

Guest speaker at last meeting of Victoria Hand Weavers' Guild was Miss Malin Selander, Orebo, Sweden, in western Canada to conduct short workshops at Calgary and Winnipeg.

The speaker, travelling teacher in the province of Narka in Sweden, and more recently head instructor in a weaving school in Orebo, told the guild a little of the history of weaving in her country.

Equipment is much the same as it was 100 years ago, she said, but schools are now state aided and teachers of handicraft and artists in weaving factories are well trained.

In one year preparatory course, the student takes 800 hours of weaving; 37 hours a week in schools for students, age 18 to 25. After graduation three to four years are spent as an assistant teacher. The student learns to mix and handle colors, weave towels, tablecloths and pillow cases, becomes familiar with techniques and does certain compulsory patterns.

Pupils also learn to dress looms and study techniques. "Teachers decide, pupils obey," Miss Selander said. "Theory and science is taught to preserve the commercial interest and for stores, and to keep traditional work alive."

"Weaving is popular now but more expensive."

Miss Selander was an attractive picture in a sleeveless hand-woven dress of fine cotton warp, with a swift of Australian wool, sent to her as a gift. It was in soft blue tones and woven to her own design, with some metallic in the skirt border.

While Miss Selander and Miss Carlson were in the city the Guild entertained with a luncheon in their honor at the Hampshire Road home of Mrs. A. G. Holden. Others present were Mrs. Holden, Mrs. G. L. Robertson, Mrs. S. Pickles, Mrs. G. Gilbert, Mrs. H. C. Hartshorne and Miss A. G. Bell.

Bride Wears Heirloom Bracelet That's More Than a Century Old

An heirloom bracelet of gold and pearls that had belonged to the bride's paternal great-grandmother more than 110 years ago was "something old" for Miss Sandra Bloomfield when she became the bride of James Frederick Moody in a recent ceremony in St. John's Anglican Church. A gown of bridal satin, made by her mother, was cut on princess lines and had lily-point sleeves. A chapel-length veil misted from a tiara of rhinestones and pearls. Pale pink rosebuds topped the white Bible she carried.

and turquoise floral silk taffeta with picture hat en tone. Identical gowns of turquoise and white floral taffeta were worn by the bridesmaids, the Misses Linda Popham and Diane Edwards, Kamloops. All had white accessories and carried pink carnations, pink rosebuds and summer flowers, shaped like dainty baskets with pink satin ribbons for handles.

Brother of the groom, Terry Moody, was the best man and the ushers were George Brice and Steve Bishop.

Rosebuds topped the five-tier wedding cake that centred the head table at a reception in St. Alban's Hall. The cake, made by the bride's mother, was flanked by sweet peas and white candles. Patrick Newell, an old friend of the family, proposed the toast to the bride.

For a honeymoon trip to Vancouver and through the State of Washington the new Mrs. Moody wore a sheath in blue embroidered sarrano suiting with duster coat en tone. She had white accessories and pink rosebuds en corsage.

On their return the newlyweds will make their home in Victoria.

Flower girls, Beryl Holland and Susan Christianson, niece of the groom, wore identical gowns of pink lace over pink taffeta with matching colonial hats. They carried baskets of pink roses and carnations.

A turquoise sheath dress with pink hat and white accessories was chosen by the bride's mother. She wore pink carnations en corsage.

FLOWERS IN CHURCH

Pink and white gladioli decorated the church as she entered on the arm of her father, Canon George Biddle officiated and Fredrick Chubb was the organist.

The parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Max Bloomfield, 2715 Forbes Street, and Mr. and Mrs. R. Moody, 433 Superior Street.

The matron of honor, Mrs. M. Hoyle, was gowned in pink

This image shows a blank, aged, cream-colored page, likely an endpaper or flyleaf of a book. The paper has a slightly textured appearance with some faint horizontal lines and small dark spots, possibly due to age or handling. The left edge of the page is bound into a dark, textured material, which appears to be the inner cover or spine of the book. The overall tone is warm and slightly off-white.

WATERFRONT AIR SHATTERED

Hawks 'Whoosh,' Thousands Gasp

By AB KENT

Victorians love a free show and the thousands who blackened vantage points from Clover to Holland Points Saturday thrilled to RCAF Golden Hawks aerial derring-do.

Six jet pilots flying gilded Sabres split the air with jet streams, drawing gasps from spectators.

Tree-top acrobatics at speeds approaching 600 miles an hour called for the finest tolerance in judgment for S/L Fern Villeneuve, Ottawa-born leader of the flight and his five wingmen.

From the opening manoeuvre of four aircraft in the shape of a cross flying on wingtips as they swept along the waterfront, the flyers kept spectators' necks craned for 20 minutes.

YARDS APART

And seconds after the debut solo pilots F/L Ralph Annis, McAdam, N.E., and F/L John Price, Knowlton, Que., came screaming from opposite points east and west to cross exactly in front of Beacon Hill Lookout, seemingly yards apart.

Repeating the pass would have been quite acceptable, but the jet jockeys came back upsidedown in case anyone objected to the straight play.

After each pass a silence would fall, broken only by exclamations by the crowd and the sonorous drone of commentator FO George MacDonald, Ottawa.

Then, from points more than a dozen miles apart in most cases, the planes would approach the waterfront, still ahead of their high-pitched exhaust whoosh.

AIR SHATTERED

Suddenly the Orenda powers. Sabres were etched large as life against the blue and white sky and the air shattered with stereophonic roars.

The four-man cross including FL Villeneuve, FL Jim McCoomb, Fredericton, N.S., Ed Rozdeba, Bienfait, Sask., and FO Bill Stewart, Dalhousie, N.S., made huge rolls and loops, changing formation at the top of each roll; some 2,500 feet above the deck.

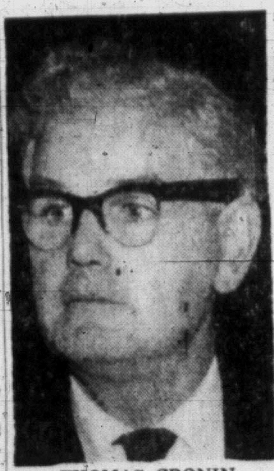

Several times they would disappear above a cloud layer, but watchers could follow the manta-like "wing" of four planes by its shadow on the overcast until it knifed back through to complete its manoeuvre, at tree-level.

COLORADO SMOKE

Corkscrewing and demonstrating simple, mechanical appearing figures, the solo pilots seemed everywhere, zooming through holes left by the quartet and releasing plumes of colored smoke or gas.

Finally, all participated in a spectacular five-part bomb-burst including vertical climbs, dives, tight turns, red, white and blue plumes.

And it was a good crowd, remarked unit commanding officer WC Jack Allen. "As good as any we've had in the west, maybe even the east."

THOMAS CRONIN

Butler Switches 'Palaces'

LONDON (AP)—Princess Margaret's former butler has accepted a job in the United States which he says will bring him more money a year than a British cabinet minister gets.

Thomas Cronin, 44, who quit the royal household because he couldn't get along with the princess' husband, Antony Armstrong-Jones, told a reporter he is joining the Danta Jai Alai Palace, a Florida tourist centre north of Miami.

He says his pay will be around $15,000 a year in addition to free food, clothing and accommodation. Most British cabinet ministers get £5,000 ($14,000) a year.

Cronin's pay scale for the Joneses was at the rate of about $2,500 a year but he stayed only 25 days.

Cronin will be butler-host in the white leather-upholstered "royal box" at the Florida palace.

But he made it clear he would not entertain guests with stories about the private life of Princess Margaret and her husband because "one should not talk about such things."

Phone Centre Opposed By Residents

Residents in the Swan Lake area have sent a petition to Saanich council opposing an industrial rezoning bylaw to permit the construction of a $300,000 B.C. Telephone Co. service centre on 4½ acres of property in the district.

Council will vote on the bylaw tonight.

George F. Ford, 831 Vernon, a spokesman for the residents, said the project would spoil plans for developing a well-planned civic commercial centre in the area.

"We can't see the sense of council planning to invest $1,000,000 on a civic centre and improvements to the Swan Lake waterfront and at the same time endorsing a bylaw which would spoil its development," he said.

He pointed out that the company's trucking and pole storage centre would be situated between the civic centre and Dominion Construction Co. integrated shopping centre to the south.

The industrial site, he added, would interfere with the proposed extension of Blanshard Street.

"We are wondering if some Saanich councillors think at all," he said. "They seem to have no idea of planning what-ever."

SOROKIN BOY AT HILLIERS

The nine-year-old stepson of Stefan Sorokin, leader of the Sons of Freedom Doukhobor sect, has been sent from Vancouver to visit his mother on Vancouver Island while Sorokin recovers from a recurring liver ailment in Vancouver.

Sorokin, who came to B.C. to press a libel suit against the Trail Times, is recovering from the ailment, aggravated by the long air trip from his home in Uruguay.

His stepson Billie was sent to Hilliers to visit his mother, Florence, for "a few days." Florence left Sorokin in Uruguay in 1958 and has since lived at Hilliers.

'NO SPECIAL TREATMENT FOR VIEW ROYAL PUPILS'

Board Won't Budge on Bus Fight

The Greater Victoria School Board can't give View Royal preferential treatment over other districts with regard to school buses, John Gough, superintendent of schools, said Saturday.

Mr. Gough was replying to protests from View Royal residents over the board's refusal to reinstate this fall the school bus service for the elementary school in the district.

They claim that the Old Island Highway is hazardous for children.

"The views of the board are that residents in the Shellbourne and Quadra districts could present just as good a case as View Royal parents for a children's school bus service," Mr. Gough said.

He pointed out that for years the Greater Victoria district has borne the total cost for the View Royal bus service.

NO COST SHARING—The government, he said, does not share costs for a bus service for children living within a three-mile radius of a school.

INDIAN HOUSE TO GET AUTHENTIC 'OLD LOOK'

By HUMPHRY DAVY

Plans have been approved to give the interior of the Indian house at Thunderbird Park an "old look."

Starting in September, Indian carvers Chief Muhgo Martin and his nephew, Henry Hunt, will start making furnishings for the house.

STORAGE

Since the house was built by Chief Martin in 1953, it has been without furniture and has been used mainly for storage of native canoes.

Wilson Duff, provincial anthropologist, said the aim is to make more effective use of the house as a tourist attraction and museum.

The canoes will be removed in time, he said, and the house furnished with various exhibits.

FEAST BOWL

Chief Martin and his assistant first will make a huge Indian feast bowl carved in the shape of a whale, a key furniture item in the well-to-do homes of yesteryear.

Other objects will include carved boxes which were used by the Indians for the storage of their goods.

Small exhibits will not be included in the furnishings, Mr. Duff said, as this would require an attendant at the Indian house to safeguard the objects and to protect them from vandalism.

B.C. VOTE 'TEST' SAYS COLDWELL

VANCOUVER (CP)—Former CCF leader M. J. Coldwell says the proposed marriage of the CCF and the Canadian Labor Congress in a new political party will be given a trial in the Sept. 12 general election in British Columbia.

The union is not scheduled until next year, but the B.C. Federation of Labor voted last October to back the CCF in this election and is providing wide support in the campaign.

"This (election) will give us some indication of the success the new party can expect," Mr. Coldwell said Sunday in an airport interview. He will be in B.C. until Sept. 7, advising and aiding the CCF in its bid to increase its 10-seat representation in the 52-seat house.

WARNING BY EXCHANGE

Strachan Raps Stock 'Scare'

VANCOUVER (CP)—Investment decisions involving more than $450,000,000 in British Columbia's oil and gas industry could be affected by the results of the provincial election, says a Vancouver Stock Exchange report.

The exchange says the future of the rapidly-developing industry depends heavily on the ability to raise capital outside the province.

"That depends wholly on the confidence with which investors regard the political climate toward their industry, so far encouraging to them," the report says.

"From long experience, the oil and gas industry is sensitive to nationalistic or socialist attack.

"B.C.'s standing with the managers of such investment and speculative funds could improve or worsen, according to what interpretation was put on the results of the Sept. 12 provincial election in which a strong bid for power is being made by socialists and in which government-ownership sentiment within parties and the electorate will be carefully studied."

DIRTY POLITICS

In Trail, Robert Strachan, leader of the provincial CCF party, called the report "dirty, rotten politics on the part of the people responsible for planting such statements."

"It is part of the lying, scurrilous stream of innuendos by those who have failed politically and realize the growing strength of the CCF," Mr. Strachan said.

"Hundreds of millions have been spent in oil and gas exploration in the province of Saskatchewan, where we have had a CCF government for 16 years, and have been handled to the satisfaction of the government, to the satisfaction of the companies involved in exploration, and to the satisfaction of the people of Saskatchewan."

MAJOR INCOME SOURCE

The exchange report says the industry is becoming one of the provincial government's major income sources, with $16,000,000 last year in revenues from drilling permits, leases and sales and from royalties on production.

In addition, it says, the government received sales taxes on material used, gasoline taxes and other revenues generated from industrial activities of the industry.

"The fact that an almost negligible amount of government expenditure must be made in order to get this revenue is significant and helpful to the general taxpayers of the province," the report adds.

The exchange estimates that the industry in the next three years must spend upwards of $450,000,000 on pipelines and oil wells to develop the leases and permits now in existence and to provide refineries, chemical sulphur and other product and by-product plants.

MEETING SET

New Party Ready for Election

OTTAWA (CP) — A "crash campaign" will be launched if the federal government calls a snap election before Canada's new left-of-centre reform party is founded next summer, a party spokesman said today.

The founding convention for the new party is set for July 31-Aug. 4 at Ottawa, with about 1,500 to 2,000 delegates from trade unions, CCF groups, new party clubs as well as some individuals expected to attend.

Both the CCF party itself and unions affiliated with the Canadian Labor Congress have endorsed the idea of a new social reform party for Canadian politics.

Stanley Knowles, vice-president of the 1,100,000-member CLC and chairman of the National Committee for the New Party, said the crash election plan would be devised to fit the timing and circumstances of any sudden federal general election.

"We don't think there will be an election," said Mr. Knowles at a press conference.

CANDIDATES FROM BOTH

He indicated that there could be candidates in an election from the CCF and from the new party, even though it had not formally come into existence. They would not, of course, run against one another.

The founding convention date was set at a weekend meeting here of the National Committee for the new party consisting of 10 members of the CCF party and 10 representatives of the CLC.

Establishment of the new party was approved by the CCF national convention at Regina Aug. 11. Similar approval was given by the CLC at a convention in Montreal in April.

"Ottawa was chosen as the place for the founding convention because it is the capital of Canada and because of its bilingual heritage," the national committee said.

Times News Services

MOSCOW—Strelka and Belka, the two dogs the Russians successfully returned to earth from outer space, held their first new conference today.

They wagged their tails, nuzzled newsmen and scampered about, showing no ill effects of their trip in a space ship.

The dogs landed safely in a special container catapulted from their space ship when it had "come down to a low height," Pravda reports.

The Soviet Communist party newspaper says the 4½-ton space ship, which carried a cargo of mice, flies and plants, made a smooth landing "undamaged and whole" in a meadow of a collective farm, somewhere in the Soviet Union Saturday.

Presumably the landing was made with the aid of parachutes, but Pravda gave no details. The ship had been launched Friday.

The Russians said the landings were made within seven miles of the target spot.

Strelka wore a red jacket and Belka a green jacket.

The scientist said the trip into the cosmos was the first for both dogs.

The Soviet Union launched its space ship last Friday. It was returned to earth Saturday.

Journalists who inspected the dogs could see for themselves that the space travellers had not a single bruise or abrasion," Tass News Agency said. "They sat on a table in their travelling outfit, playful and lively and fawned on people."

Reporters were also shown two cages filled with mice and rats which were used for studying hereditary changes possible as the result of cosmic conditions, especially cosmic radiation, the news agency said.

The scientist told the conference there were no changes in the pigmentation of a mouse and no grey hairs which indicated there were no cosmic radiation effects.

Radio Moscow filled the air with predictions by Soviet scientists that it would soon be possible for Russia to put two mongrels for their historic trip. The two dogs sat on a table under the bright lights of the conference, dressed in their space suits and occasionally scampering about and nuzzling newsmen.

Oleg Gazenko, a spokesman for the Soviet Union's Academy of Sciences, conducted the conference for the dogs and explained they were chosen for the flight because of their tranquil nature and equilibrium.

Strelka (Little Arrow) and Belka (Squirrel) were fed automatically twice a day during their space trip, Gazenko said.

The scientist said the trip into the cosmos was the first for both dogs.

PILOT'S WIFE APPEALS TO K

MOSCOW (AP)—Mrs. Barbara Powers appealed today to Premier Khrushchev to see her so she can ask for mercy for her husband, Francis Gary Powers, the U-2 pilot convicted of espionage against the Soviet Union.

Her lawyer delivered to the Kremlin a three-page letter the 25-year-old wife of the American flyer wrote by hand.

U.S. Agent Defects To Russia

LONDON (Reuters)—Sgt. Vladimir Sloboda, described as a member of the U.S. intelligence service in West Germany, has asked for political asylum in Russia, the Soviet news agency Tass said.

In a statement published in tonight's issue of the government newspaper Izvestia, Sloboda reported on the activities of the United States intelligence services in West Germany, Tass said.

He said he was deputy commander of one of the sections of staff 513 and the intelligence group of Oberursel, near Frankfurt.

Sloboda's statement, headed "I break with the enemies of peace," is said to have been made Aug. 5 when he called on the Soviet Embassy in East Germany. He had crossed the border Aug. 2.

In his application for asylum he said that every day of service in the U.S. intelligence had led him to the conviction that the "official course of the policy of the U.S. government was total espionage, deception and blackmail, provocation and hypocrisy."

LINGUIST AND CLERK

The U.S. Army said when Sloboda disappeared that he was a linguist and clerk, not a deputy commander as Izvestia reported.

The army said Sloboda had "only very limited access to security information" and that no secret documents were missing.

In his statement Sloboda said detachments of U.S. military, air and naval intelligence are controlled by the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency in West Germany.

U.K. Strike Called Off

SOUTHAMPTON (Reuters)—The wildcat strike of British seamen was called off tonight by leaders of the "National Seamen's Reform Movement" here.

But they said they would still go on recruiting members for their organization.

The decision to call off the strike was taken at a meeting of about 50 strikers here. It was the smallest meeting yet since the stoppage began two weeks ago.

BIRTHDAY REPORT

Margaret Expecting?

LONDON (UPI)—Newspapers here marked Princess Margaret's 30th birthday with reports that she is expecting a baby and that her husband, Antony Armstrong-Jones, has found a job.

The Sunday Dispatch cited "American circles in London" as the authority for its exclusive story that the princess is pregnant, saying that unidentified American magazine editor got the story from an "unimpeachable source."

Today's Daily Express reported that Jones, who had to give up his fashionable photography studio when he married the princess, will go to work for the Civic Trust, a non-profit organization devoted to keeping Britain beautiful.

Buckingham Palace would neither confirm nor deny either report. Maj. John Griffin, Margaret's press spokesman, said he would like to be able to confirm the report that she is expecting, but that he could not.

"It would be a happy event to announce on her birthday, but no announcement like that is coming from me," Griffin said. "Nobody in the world would know but the princess and her husband."

Lumumba Backs Down

LEOPOLDVILLE (CP)—The Congolese government today withdrew the demands it has been trying to impose on the United Nations Congo operation.

In a sharp reversal of its previous position, the government announced it "sees no reason to press its demands" in view of the latest Security Council meeting on the Congo.

The Security Council, in effect, reaffirmed the policy pursued by Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld has been under fire by the Congolese who accused him of "blackmail, treason and plotting."

Today, a Congolese government spokesman said: "The government is satisfied that Belgian troops will be withdrawn. The government considers that the atmosphere is good."

Among the demands made by Premier Patrice Lumumba were withdrawal of all white United Nations troops from the Congo, a supply of planes by the UN to transport Congolese soldiers to deal with political dissension in the interior and the appointment of an African-Asian committee to advise Hammarskjöld.

Lumumba had threatened that unless the Security Council bowed to his demands he would appeal for aid to another power. The other power never was named.

USSR Plan Loses

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UPI)—The Security Council ignoring Russian opposition, endorsed Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld's Congo policy early today without a formal vote.

A Russian resolution proposing the creation of a consultative committee to "aid" Hammarskjöld in the Congo—the only concrete proposal advanced at a marathon council session that lasted well past midnight—was withdrawn in the face of sure defeat.

During the 9-hour-and-23-minute debate, all of the council's 11 members except Russia and Poland supported Hammarskjöld's refusal to involve the UN in the Congo's internal affairs.

Ambassador Armand Berard, the council's French president-of-the-month, summed up the consensus in two sentences.

"We have heard different views and questions," he said. "We are convinced that the secretary-general will have found the clarification he required, and that no doubt will help him in the continuation of his task."

Hammarskjöld summoned the council to an extraordinary session when his policy of neutrality toward the secession of mineral-rich Katanga province was challenged by Congo Premier Patrice Lumumba.

Russia was specifically critical of the inclusion of Canadian troops in the Congo force, charging that Hammarskjöld was allowing the creation of an Atlantic pact "Foreign Legion."

Hammarskjöld replied that the Canadians were needed because they were the only available signalmen who could speak both English and French.

Apology Made

LEOPOLDVILLE (CP)—Congolese Premier Patrice Lumumba, in a turnaround move, has apologized for the rough treatment handed out to a group of Canadian United Nations signalmen by his troops last Thursday.

He blamed the "minor incidents" at nearby Ndjili airport on his soldiers' "excess of zeal" and said he has ordered them to act with tact and dignity in the future. The chief of staff of the Congolese army, Col. Mobutu, also apologized.

On Friday Lumumba blamed the Canadians for the trouble, saying they had "behaved badly" and refused to show identity cards.

At a press conference in his home here Saturday night, Lumumba expressed regret over Thursday's incident and said he has confidence in the Canadian troops.

"I asked for the French-speaking technicians myself during my trip to Canada," he said. "It was not for this that I invited them."

Mobutu's apology came in a letter to Bunche.

"We are extremely sorry that precise instructions had not been given in time to the company on duty at the airport as that might have prevented the shameful occurrence at Ndjili," he said.

"Strong measures" had been taken "as regards the Congolese troops responsible for the Ndjili incident."

'DRAMATIC LEAP'

"Russia has once again dramatically leaped ahead of America in the race for the conquest of space," said The Sunday Times.

The London Observer said the Soviet feat "will be a bitter pill to American scientists who have also successfully recovered objects from orbit, but on a far more modest scale."

CHICAGO (AP)—Grain futures prices were mostly firm today in rather slow dealings on the board-of-trade. Corn and newcrop soybean contracts were the losers.

Oats and rye posted major fractional gains at their best. Wheat was up small fractions. Brokers said the buying appeared to be mainly short covering since commercial demand was described as light.

Victoria Geared For Fight

By JOHN MIKA

At least three Victoria resolutions will touch off controversial debates next month when the Union of B.C. Municipalities meets for its 57th annual convention.

The city proposals would:

Channel a part of federal income tax revenue directly into local school budgets; set up a year-round relief work program to replace the existing winter work program; and establish permanent arbitration boards, headed by judges, for settling disputes between municipalities and their police and firemen.

These probably will arouse as much discussion as a resolution from the North-Central B.C. Municipal Association urging the provincial government to introduce legislation "so as to permit Sunday sports in any municipality where a plebiscite shows a majority in favor."

TRAILER TAXATION

Another resolution showing promise of heated words is a demand, by a UBCM committee, that the provincial government tax trailers used as permanent homes and distribute the revenue among municipalities as a payment in lieu of property taxes.

Saanich council also has a couple of touchy proposals on the agenda.

One of these would entitle councillors to participate in the provincial superannuation plan so they could draw pensions after 10 years of service as elected officials.

The other asks for provincial legislation allowing municipalities to set up reserve funds—to which all subdivisions would have to contribute—which would be used for buying land to establish parks and recreational grounds in new subdivisions.

DEADLINE CHANGE

Among other Victoria resolutions is a request for provincial legislation putting a Feb. 15 deadline on completion of all annual working agreements between municipalities and civic unions.

All told, 13 of the 86 resolutions to be considered by the Sept. 21-23 convention in New Westminster will be sponsored by Greater Victoria municipalities.

Victoria and Saanich have submitted six each and Esquimalt has proposed one.

Rain Postpones Horse Games

Because of heavy rain Sunday afternoon the 11th annual gymkhana of Colwood Trail Riders was postponed to next Sunday.

It will be held at Tower Point, Albert Head starting at 1 p.m., and officials said today "it will go this time rain or shine."

On Saturday the Colwood group will stage a show at the Luxton Fair starting at 1.30 p.m.

ASK THE TIMES

Q. Will you please tell me as to whether any citizen has the power, or right, to influence the press—against having any of said publications printing certain letters that any of the readers may write? E.H.

A. Letters received from readers stand on their own merits, based on general interest and lucidity. Not all letters received have these characteristics and therefore may not be used. If a letter is long and the subject matter, on the editor's decision, does not warrant the space, it also would not be used. However, long letters are not merely filed away because of their length if they have a message of seeming importance.

Q. What is Regina's altitude? O.W.

A. Regina is 1,885 feet above sea level.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem along to The Times, addressed to "Ask the Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve conundrums or legal problems. Nor will it attempt to put a value on old coins, stamps or antiques. These should be submitted to dealers.

CITY MAN KILLED

A semi-retired mining consultant, Lorne E. Mackenzie of 200 Douglas Street, was killed in an interior highway accident over the weekend.

The mishap occurred about 20 miles from Revelstoke but no details were available this morning. The body was taken to Salmon Arm. He was in the area on an assignment for W. C. Pittfield and Company.

He is survived by the widow, Jean, at home.

"SARGE" ALWAYS HAS BEEN THE BOSS, says Pt. Patricia Thomas (left) of the Canadian Women's Army Corps. Wearing the stripes is her mother, Sgt. Jean O'Neil. Both live at 880 Sayward Road and are members of No. 155 Company, Royal Canadian Army Service Corps. The mother-daughter combination was photographed at Camp Wainwright, Alta., where they are undergoing summer training with 150 other CWAC members. (National Defence Photo.)

'Fast-Draw' Stops Suspect in Forgery

A Victorian faced two forgery charges in Colwood RCMP court today after a citizen's arrest of a suspect at gunpoint late Saturday afternoon.

The two charges are the first of what is expected to be a series in Greater Victoria police courts against a ring dealing in altered money orders.

Other Island fairs will be held at Sooke on Sept. 10 and at Cobble Hill on Sept. 7.

The Saanich Fair—south Vancouver Island major exhibition—will be held as usual on the Labor Day weekend, Sept. 3 and 5.

The fair's program this year includes a bigger and better horse show, 4-H Club competitions, and one of the largest exhibitions of farm products and home crafts.

Other Island fairs will be held at Sooke on Sept. 10 and at Cobble Hill on Sept. 7.

The manager, William Hollick, held a .38 pistol on a man who tried to leave his premises after presenting a money order for payment.

Police said Hollick became suspicious after receiving a telephone warning of bogus money orders from Colwood RCMP.

He said a man entered his premises at 4.45, asking to cash a money order. Hollick told him to sit down for a few minutes and took the order away.

"I went upstairs and telephoned the RCMP. Then I took a .38 pistol and waited outside the men's entrance."

The suspect emerged and was told to stay where he was. Moments later he was in handcuffs as the police arrived in response to Hollick's call.

SUSPICIOUS

Police were first tipped off by an Esquimalt hotel keeper who called Esquimalt police when he became suspicious of a man trying to cash a money order earlier in the day.

When Esquimalt police began investigating, they learned another hotel in the municipality had already cashed a similar money order a short time before.

The suspect in the second case left before the arrival of police. However, a description of him and a suspected accomplice was circulated to other departments.

'Moody' Weather Pattern Keeps Everybody Guessing

An eerie blend of sun and storm hit Victoria Sunday afternoon with menacing black clouds, intermittent lightning, thunder and heavy rain.

The thunder and rain spread over southern Vancouver Island, northern Washington and the lower mainland, giving way to sunny periods in the evening.

Lights flickered on and off in some parts of the city and one local radio station went off the air for about three minutes.

A similar mixture of cloud and sun was expected this afternoon and evening with more showers tonight and early Tuesday, according to weatherman William Mackie.

Sunday's rainfall measured 42 inches at Pat Bay Airport, 21 inches at Gonzales Weather Observatory, 44 in the Tillamook area, 47 at Nanaimo, 43 at Seattle, 53 at Abbotsford and 73 at Vancouver.

At least two of the 166 Victoria students touring Europe found it hard to forget B.C. politics. . . . Nan Gregory, and Hugh Skillings, son of Social Credit contender Waldo Skillings, got into a number of arguments en route, according to their friends.

And Nan was carrying a "Go Grit" banner when the students landed back here Saturday afternoon.

Is dusty prairie Regina a threat to the garden city of Victoria?

"It's amazing what they have done there," she said after a trip to Regina for the CCF national convention last week.

Wenner-Gren is the "invisible candidate" in the election campaign, according to Tom Berger, CCF candidate for Vancouver Centre.

"A vote for Social Credit is a vote for Wenner-Gren," he told a Vancouver audience Sunday night. "He is the invisible candidate—the man Canadian businessmen were forbidden to deal with during the war."

Herbert Bruch, long-term Social Credit member for Esquimalt, finds electioneering a full-time job in his scattered riding. It is broken up into 29 communities extending as far as Jordan River.

Tonight he is addressing an election rally at Shawinigan Lake—and nine more are slated in the Esquimalt riding before polling day.

LIKE A TERRIER trying to take a bite out of a bulldog, this small car came close to overturning when its right front wheel locked with the left rear of the parked truck, sending two parents and their four children to hospital with minor injuries at 11.55 p.m. Saturday. Mrs. Pearl Green, 28, with face cuts and a back injury, is in good condition at Jubilee Hospital. Her three-week-old baby Terry was admitted for observation and husband

Arthur, 31, of 3011 Glen Lake, was discharged after treatment of head cuts; Robert, five; Irma, three, and Mark, one, were examined and discharged. Their father drove west on Hillside and was in collision with the parked truck near Grosvenor. After Sunday accidents in Colwood area, a 65-year-old man and a seven-year-old girl were treated at St. Joseph's Hospital for minor injuries and discharged.

MONTE ROBERTS

It's getting so you can't tell the satellites without a program.

The above is not a flippant remark. It is the plaintive cry of an old geezer who has the feeling progress has passed him by.

This old geezer just can't keep up with things. Born at a time when it was quite acceptable to say ooh! aah! and goodness gracious!, this old geezer can't seem to get adjusted to the "izzatso?" attitude presently current in the world.

To show you what this old geezer means, he was watching a baseball game in Seattle last Friday night.

(The fact he was in Victoria while watching the baseball game in Seattle doesn't rate the tiniest ooh or the smallest aah, even without exclamation points).

And somewhere along about the second or third inning, with nobody on and nobody out and the score tied nothing to nothing, the television camera shied away from the baseball diamond and took a look at the sky.

Across the sky moved a brightly shining, roundish object.

The play-by-play announcer said, in a matter-of-fact tone, "There's a pretty good view of a satellite." Then his voice timbred upward into excitement "There's a good bunt along the first base line . . . oops, it rolled foul."

The camera dutifully recorded the bunt rolling foul, then went back to the sky.

Remarked the announcer: "There's the satellite again . . . oh, oh, he hit a long one to centre field . . . is it going out of there? . . . nope, he was caught out."

The camera did its duty once more, showing the centre fielder making the catch.

And while he was waiting for the next man to come to bat, the announcer filled time by saying "Wonder which satellite that was?"

An anonymous voice in the background allowed as how that was probably Echo I, and the announcer said, "oh, yeah, that's the one we bounce radio and television signals off."

So this old gezer turned off the set and went to bed without knowing who won the ball game.

Although he did hear later that Echo I crossed over the field once more—after having circled the earth—long before the last out in the ninth inning.

Nothing, of course, to cause excitement and wonder, unless you're an old geezer whom progress has passed by.

Balloon Bomb Fear Recalled By Memorial

Dedication of a memorial Saturday in Port Angeles to North America's only adult victim of the Japanese balloon bombs recalled today the 1945 threat the bombs posed to Victoria and Western Canada.

The giant paper balloons cascaded down in unknown quantities, released from mainland Japan.

The memorial at Port Angeles is to Elsie Winters Mitchell, who with five children was killed at Bly, Ore., May 5, 1945, when a balloon loaded with explosives was detonated by one of the children.

Mrs. Mitchell and her husband, a minister, were taking the children on a picnic.

One of the children found the collapsed balloon in a field and pulled at the detonating device. Mr. Mitchell was away from the site when the explosion took place.

Two Port Angeles veterans organizations sponsored the memorial at Ocean View Cemetery.

About 250 bombs fell on Canadian territory.

Some were shot down by the RCAF. At Coal Harbor, B.C. crew of one aircraft forced a balloon down intact by using the plane's slipstream as a steering guide.

A special fire-fighting force was organized on Vancouver Island to meet the forest fire threat posed by the bombs.

'Festive Season' Here for Farmers

By HUMPHRY DAVY

More than $200,000 worth of livestock, poultry and farm products from Saanich representing many hours of labor and culture, have started to make the rounds of fairs on the mainland and Vancouver Island.

The "show" got on the road at the Nanaimo Fair which ended Saturday, and will continue through to Sept. 9-10 when the last major Island fair is held at Duncan.

"It's the farmers' festive season, and I suppose it is as much so for the farm animals on exhibition," said Willard Mitchell, president of the Saanich Farmers' Institute, a well-known fair exhibitor.

COSTS MONEY

Farmers, he pointed out, go to considerable expense to show their farm animals and to compete in fair competitions.

"They show the best of their year's work, the best that the earth can produce," he said.

Some of the main South Vancouver Island exhibitors include Alex Turner, Trans-Canada Highway, beef cattle and sheep; William Taylor, Central Saanich; Holstein; R. L. Mutrie, Mount Newton Cross Roads.

The next major fair scheduled for local farmers is the Luxton Exhibition which has been increasing in size and interest in the last few years. It will be held this Friday and Saturday.

The Saanich Fair—south Vancouver Island major exhibition—will be held as usual on the Labor Day weekend, Sept. 3 and 5.

The fair's program this year includes a bigger and better horse show, 4-H Club competitions, and one of the largest exhibitions of farm products and home crafts.

Other Island fairs will be held at Sooke on Sept. 10 and at Cobble Hill on Sept. 7.

TOPICS OF THE DAY

After his car was in an accident at Cook and Pembroke, Allan John Watson, 1402 Stanley, went to call police, disappeared in a nearby backyard and was not seen again for two days.

In city police court today, Watson, also known as House, pleaded guilty to four charges bringing a total $145 in fines: Failing to remain at the scene of an accident, $75; careless driving, $35; driving without a licence, $25 and failing to make accident reports, $10.

Accused said he had borrowed the car and was driving on the public streets for the first time in about 20 years.

Permission to drop leaflets from the air to advertise the Louis (Satchmo) Armstrong concert was requested of city council today by Victoria Cosmopolitan Club. The concert by the famed jazz band leader will be held Sept. 17 in Memorial Arena.

A public meeting on the proposed sign bylaw will be held Wednesday at 8 p.m. in city council chambers.

Winners of the master point tournament held by Victoria unit, American Contract Bridge League, were:

North-South—1. Simon Markiner, Gordon Rodger, 2. Jim Duprau, Jack Goldie, 3. Lillian LeButt, Guy Dickson.

East-West—Isabel Artlett, Lillian Goldwin, 2. Mr. and Mrs. J. Brawn, 3. Stan Tricky Albert Jorgenson.

Tuesday Meetings

Victoria Kiwanis: Noon, Empress Hotel. H. B. McLean on "Fads, Facts, Fallacies and Forgeries."

Victoria North Kiwanis: 6.15 p.m., Monterey Restaurant. No speaker—work on St. David's-by-the-Sea project.

James Arnold Harkness, Work Point, was fined $250 when he pleaded guilty in city police court today to a charge of impaired driving on Johnson Street.

He was remanded for probation report on licence suspension.

About a dollar in change was stolen from a cookie jar by a thief who crawled in the window of a Fairfield house overnight Saturday.

S. M. Rundell, 1957 Fairfield Place, told police the burglary happened while he was away for the night. A window had been left insecure.

The B.C. government has issued a $250 grant to the Canadian Writers' Foundation.

The grant follows a request for aid at the foundation's convention here last month.

TRAFFIC FINES

In city police court today: Roy L. Green, 2312 Victor, $20 for failing to stop at a red light.

Clifford Walter Chudy, Brentwood, $10 each for driving with inadequate hand brake, no horn and no mirror.

Irene Day, 1740 Amphion, $10 for violation of driver's licence restriction.

Harold G. Carson, 185 Olive, $15 for opening driver's door while unsafe.

Jeff Hingley, 1716 Fort, $10 for driving a bicycle without a light.

NOTES, VOTES, QUOTES

'Heart-Breaking Stories by Unemployed'

Unemployment is the biggest issue in the current election campaign, says Victoria Liberal candidate Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow, now on a house-to-house canvass of the city.

"I hear heart-breaking stories everywhere," he says, and many people are hoping the Liberals will do something about it—as we have done in the past."

Tonight Ald. Edgelow will share the platform at a rally in Sir James Douglas School with fellow candidates George Gregory and Forrest L. Shaw.

"We are much heartened by the wonderful campaign rally we had in Vancouver over the weekend," Ald. Edgelow said. (See Page 3.)

As the RCAF Golden Hawks roared over the city Saturday afternoon, a man turned to Conservative campaign manager Tom Austin and said:

"Is this part of the Liberals' razzle-dazzle campaign?"

New Party Ready for Election

OTTAWA (CP) — A "crash campaign" will be launched if the federal government calls a snap election before Canada's new left-of-centre reform party is founded next summer, a party spokesman said today.

The founding convention for the new party is set for July 31-Aug. 4 at Ottawa, with about 1,500 to 2,000 delegates from trade unions, CCF groups, new party clubs as well as some individuals expected to attend.

Both the CCF party itself and unions affiliated with the Canadian Labor Congress have endorsed the idea of a new social reform party for Canadian politics.

Stanley Knowles, vice-president of the 1,100,000-member CLC and chairman of the National Committee for the New Party, said the crash election plan would be devised to fit the timing and circumstances of any sudden federal general election.

"We don't think there will be an election," said Mr. Knowles at a press conference.

CANDIDATES FROM BOTH

He indicated that there could be candidates in an election from the CCF and from the new party, even though it had not formally come into existence. They would not, of course, run against one another.

The founding convention date was set at a weekend meeting here of the National Committee for the new party.

Thieves Get $40,000 in Raid on Home

Billy Martin Sued for $1 Million

CHICAGO (AP)—Billy Martin, quick-tempered Cincinnati Reds second baseman, today was sued for $1,040,000 by the Chicago Cubs baseball club and its rookie pitcher, Jimmy Brewer. Cubs defeated Reds today 6-3. The suit arises from an Aug. 4 incident when Martin punched Brewer in the face after charging the 20-year-old southpaw was deliberately throwing at him.

England Close to Test Cricket Win

LONDON (Reuters)—A morale-shattering opening partnership of 290 by Geoff Pullar, 175, and Colin Cowdrey, 115, checked South African hopes of their only victory in the series on the fourth day of the fifth cricket Test today.

With one day left for play, England led by 116 runs with six second-innings wickets in hand.

MANNED FLIGHTS SOON?

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP)—Rumors of impending manned space flights by the Soviet Union and rockets to Mars and Venus buzzed Sunday among delegates at the International Space Congress. These came after the Russians reported they had brought their "space menagerie" safely back to earth.

Professor Leonid I. Sedov, space committee chairman at the Soviet Academy of Science, said rockets to Mars or Venus ought to be possible "in the near future."

But he said automatic space vehicles — such as the one launched by Russia Friday and brought back Saturday — are the first and major means of cosmic research.

Flees From 'Enemies Of Peace'

LONDON (Reuters)—Sgt. Vladimir Sloboda, described as a member of the U.S. intelligence service in West Germany, has asked for political asylum in Russia, the Soviet news agency Tass said.

In a statement published in tonight's issue of the government newspaper Izvestia, Sloboda reported on the activities of the United States intelligence services in West Germany, Tass said.

He said he was deputy commander of one of the sections of staff 513 and the intelligence group of Oberursel, near Frankfurt.

Sloboda's statement, headed "I break with the enemies of peace," is said to have been made Aug. 5 when he called on the Soviet Embassy in East Germany. He had crossed the border Aug. 2.

In his application for asylum he said that every day of service in the U.S. intelligence had led him to the conviction that the "official course of the policy of the U.S. government was total espionage, deception and blackmail, provocation and hypocrisy."

LINGUIST AND CLERK

The U.S. Army said when Sloboda disappeared that he was a linguist and clerk, not a deputy commander as Izvestia reported.

The army said Sloboda had "only very limited access to security information" and that no secret documents were missing.

In his statement Sloboda said detachments of U.S. military, air and naval intelligence are controlled by the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency in West Germany.

CRISIS EASED

Congo Leader Backs Down

LEOPOLDVILLE (CP)—The Congolese government today withdrew the demands it has been trying to impose on the United Nations Congo operation.

In a sharp reversal of its previous position, the government announced it "sees no reason to press its demands" in view of the latest Security Council meeting on the Congo.

The Security Council, in effect, reaffirmed the policy pursued by Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld has been under fire by the Congolese who accused him of "blackmail, treason and plotting."

Today, a Congolese government spokesman said: "The government is satisfied that Belgian troops will be withdrawn. The government considers that the atmosphere is good."

Among the demands made by Premier Patrice Lumumba were withdrawal of all white United Nations troops from the Congo, a supply of planes by the UN to transport Congolese soldiers to deal with political dissension in the interior and the appointment of an African-Asian committee to advise Hammarskjöld.

Lumumba had threatened that unless the Security Council bowed to his demands he would appeal for aid to another power. The other power never was named.

USSR Plan Loses

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UPI)—The Security Council ignoring Russian opposition, endorsed Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld's Congo policy early today without a formal vote.

A Russian resolution proposing the creation of a consultative committee to "aid" Hammarskjöld in the Congo—the only concrete proposal advanced at a marathon council session that lasted well past midnight—was withdrawn in the face of sure defeat.

During the 9-hour and 23-minute debate, all of the council's 11 members except Russia and Poland supported Hammarskjöld's refusal to involve the UN in the Congo's internal affairs.

Ambassador Armand Berard, the council's French president-of-the-month, summed up the consensus in two sentences.

"We have heard different views and questions," he said. "We are convinced that the secretary-general will have found the clarification he required, and that no doubt will help him in the continuation of his task."

Hammarskjöld summoned the council to an extraordinary session when his policy of neutrality toward the secession of mineral-rich Katanga province was challenged by Congo Premier Patrice Lumumba.

Russia was specifically critical of the inclusion of Canadian troops in the Congo force, charging that Hammarskjöld was allowing the creation of an Atlantic pact "Foreign Legion."

Hammarskjöld replied that the Canadians were needed because they were the only available signalmen who could speak both English and French.

Apology Made

LEOPOLDVILLE (CP)—Congolese Premier Patrice Lumumba, in a turnaround move, has apologized for the rough treatment handed out to a group of Canadian United Nations signalmen by his troops last Thursday.

He blamed the "minor incidents" at nearby Ndjili airport on his soldiers' "excess of zeal" and said he has ordered them to act with tact and dignity in the future.

BIRTHDAY REPORT

Margaret Expecting?

LONDON (UPI)—Newspapers here marked Princess Margaret's 30th birthday with reports that she is expecting a baby and that her husband, Antony Armstrong-Jones, has found a job.

The Sunday Dispatch cited "American circles in London" as the authority for its exclusive story that the princess is pregnant, saying that an unidentified American magazine editor got the story from an "unimpeachable source."

Today's Daily Express reported that Jones, who had to give up his fashionable photography studio when he married the princess, will go to work for the Civic Trust, a non-profit organization devoted to keeping Britain beautiful.

"Buckingham Palace would neither confirm nor deny either report," Maj. John Griffin, Margaret's press spokesman, said he would like to be able to confirm the report that she is expecting, but that he could not.

"It would be a happy event to announce on her birthday, but no announcement like that is coming from me," Griffin said. "Nobody in the world would know but the princess and her husband."

Mishaps Kill Four Over Weekend

(Compiled From CP)

VANCOUVER — Four persons died violently in British Columbia during the weekend, two by drowning and two in traffic accidents.

Dead are Alvin Halero, 29, of Prince Albert, Sask., Howard McCutcheon, 23, of Vancouver; Donald Bryon Muskett, 4, of Red Lake, B.C., and Thomas Victoria Carolan, 27, of New Westminster.

Mr. Halero was killed early Sunday when his car spun off the Cariboo Highway at Mile 67 and smashed into a gravel pit. Another occupant of the car, Gordon Garrow, was in good condition at Ashcroft hospital. Mr. Halero is survived by a wife and four small children.

Mr. McCutcheon was returning to Vancouver from Nanaimo Sunday with two companions on a CPR ferry. Police were told he was sitting on the rail and suddenly disappeared over the side.

Three life preservers were thrown to him and the ferry circled back but a search failed to find any trace of him.

Kamloops police said the body of Donald Muskett was found floating in six feet of water in the North Thompson River by several children playing at Riverside Park.

Mr. Carolan died in Royal Columbian Hospital in New Westminster 24 hours after his sports car sped across the King George Highway and rolled several times into a three-foot ditch.

REWARD OFFERED

VANCOUVER — The wife of a Vancouver department store executive offered a reward Saturday for the return of an estimated $50,000 in jewelry taken by two hooded men in a robbery at her home.

The jewelry, most of it diamonds, was insured.

RECORD BROKEN

VANCOUVER — The Pacific National Exhibition broke the attendance record for its opening day here Saturday as 74,993 passed through the turnstiles.

The figure was well ahead of last year's opening-day record of 67,809.

The attendance figure does not include the crowd at Callister Park, where the PNE is staging a rodeo this year.

Premier Bennett said Saturday the provincial government would provide $1,000,000 for new buildings at the PNE, providing the grant is matched by the federal government.

He repeated an offer made several times previously as he declared the exhibition open.

An estimated 250,000 persons lined the four-mile parade route, standing six deep, along the sidewalks as the 1½-hour long procession passed by.

Saturday afternoon the premier marked the exhibition's official opening with the press of a button that set off a natural gas flame atop a 75-foot steel tower where it will burn until the PNE ends Sept. 5.

HOLGER HONORED
OSOYOOS — Soap box champion Holger Huhn received an enthusiastic official welcome from the citizens of Osoyoos Saturday night, climaxed with a parade and a presentation of a portable radio.

The boy became the first western Canadian soap box racer to win a major prize in the soap box finals in Akron, Ohio.

Canadians Detained

LEOPOLDVILLE (AP) — Four Canadian Army signalmen serving with the United Nations were detained briefly by Congolese soldiers in Stanleyville Sunday on grounds that their papers were not in order, it was reported.

PILOT'S WIFE APPEALS TO K.

MOSCOW (AP) — Mrs. Barbara Powers appealed today to Premier Khrushchev to see her so she can ask for mercy for her husband, Francis Gary Powers, the U.S. pilot convicted of espionage against the Soviet Union.

party, called the report "dirty, rotten politics on the part of the people responsible for planting such statements."

"It is part of the lying, scurrilous stream of innuendos by those who have failed politically and realize the growing strength of the CCF," Mr. Strachan said.

"Hundreds of millions have been spent in oil and gas exploration in the province of Saskatchewan, where we have had a CCF government for 16 years, and have been handed to the satisfaction of the government, to the satisfaction of the companies involved in exploration, and to the satisfaction of the people of Saskatchewan."

MAJOR INCOME SOURCE

The exchange report says the industry is becoming one of the provincial government's major income sources, with $16,000,000 last year in revenues from drilling permits, leases and sales and from royalties on production.

In addition, it says, the government received sales taxes on material used, gasoline taxes and other revenues generated from industrial activities of the industry.

"The fact that an almost negligible amount of government expenditure must be made in order to get this revenue is significant and helpful to the general taxpayers of the province," the report adds.

The exchange estimates that the industry in the next three years must spend upwards of $450,000,000 on pipelines and oil wells to develop the leases and permits now in existence and to provide refineries, chemical sulphur and other product and by-product plants.
